

PROTEST AT HAMMOND

WILSON FAILS TO GET RESULTS HE DESIRES

Reservation Senators Are Not Receiving Letters Demanding That Opposition to Treaty Cease; Demand for Referendum Vote on Treaty Is Made by Senators Opposing Wilson; Borah and Johnson Speak in Chicago Wednesday.

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—If President Wilson was counting upon strong reaction from the territory in which he has spoken in the form of telegrams and letters to senators opposing the treaty, he has not yet made his trip a success, according to his opponents in the senate.

With this situation giving them confidence, Senators Johnson, Borah and McCormick, leave this afternoon to open their unique series of long distance debates with the president. As Johnson said, the president's trip he will take up the covenant point by point to argue his opinion of the sacrifices of Americans in the treaty, and then he will take a different route but hammer on the same issue.

Borah said today the only letter he had received on the subject of the president's trip was from a St. Louis business man unknown to him, who urged the senator to keep up the fight. The letter stated that the president had talked only generalities in St. Louis and that while he had a big crowd, the writer did not believe he had impressed the locality with the treaty, and that the treaty was unimpeachable.

Senator Borah today renewed his demand for a referendum on the treaty. He characterized the president's going before the people at this time as virtually a "sham battle" for the reason that the "people" can't do

WILSON TALKS TO THE LEGISLATURE

President Speaks to Minnesota Body Following an Unenthusiastic Welcome.

SMALL CROWD AT DEPOT

(By United Press)
STATE CAPITOL, ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 9.—Ratification of the peace treaty is essential to a "settling down" of world conditions which will tend to bring down the cost of living, President Wilson today told a special session of the Minnesota legislature. The legislators listened for the most part in silence, leaning forward in their seats to hear better.

Wilson argued America should help the world get on its feet again so trade might be re-established for the financial betterment of America.

Sensitizers who oppose the league of nations are afflicted with "just downright ignorance," he said. There was handclapping, a few cheers and Mrs. Wilson, sitting in the gallery, smiled.

America must play a part in world affairs, he said, as it must play this part "either inside or on the curb."

He told an anecdote or two to emphasize his points and there was considerable laughter.

After his speech he started for the St. Paul hotel to rest before lunch there.

President Wilson and party arrived at St. Paul at 3 a. m. today.

Not a very large crowd gathered around the depot. Military and civil police maintained good order.

Confederate Maj. Burnquist, Mayor Hodgson of St. Paul and Mayor Meyers of Minneapolis with their wives, boarded the president's car at the depot to welcome them.

There was considerable delay at the station when the train pulled in because automobiles to take the party to the hotel were not there.

The president appeared on the rear platform to bow and smile at War Camp Community Service girls, who were singing "Swanee Song" and "The Star-Spangled Banner" as he passed.

The presidential party took but a few minutes to leave the station and the train started for the hotel.

Wilson was expected to tell a special session of the legislature something about the peace treaty and league of nations. A military escort preceded the president and Mrs. Wilson. They lined the mile of streets from the depot to the hotel.

The "big" reception for the president followed at the capitol. The governor's reception room was crowded with prominent state, city and county officials, and newspaper publishers.

There was prolonged handclapping but no cheering.

Wilson, smiling, girls brought a big laugh from the crowd and a smile from the president when they sang "Good Morning, Mr. Zip, Zip, Zip."

The president arrived at the capitol at 8 a. m. Crowds clapped hands but there was little cheering.

Wilson sat smiling beside him. Both seemed impressed with the imposing capital building.

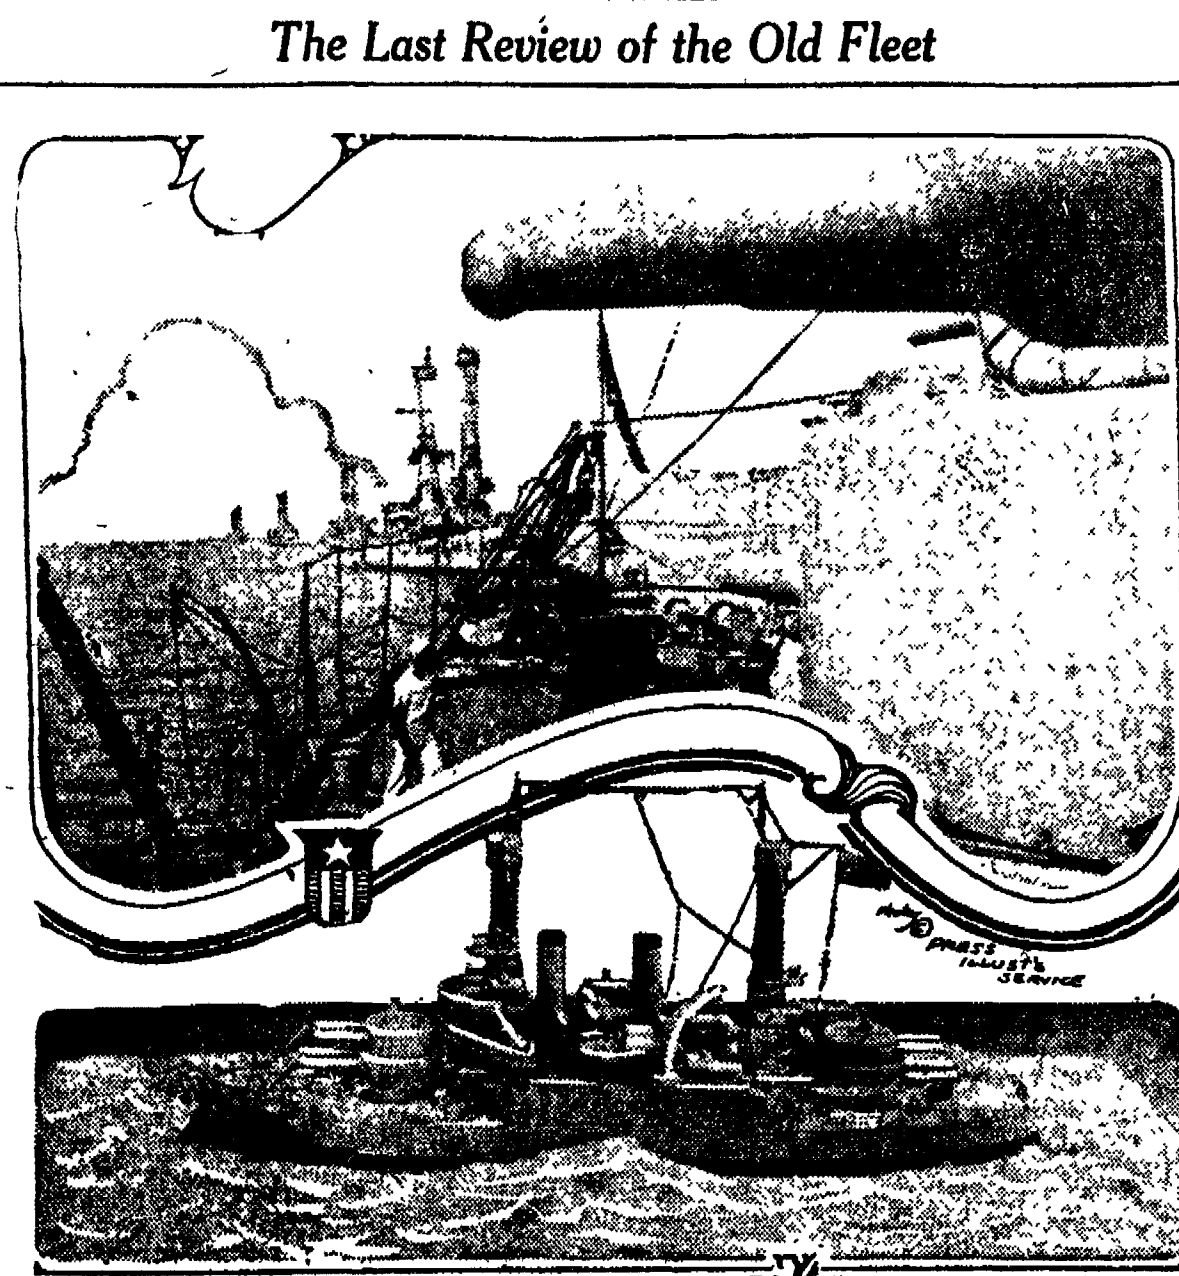

Talk to Legislature.

He went first to the governor's room and addressed a few minutes with Governor Burnquist.

The house chamber at the capitol was filled to suffocation.

Wilson was received at the railroad station by a band guard of state troops, who formed a single rank on each side of the street, and marched beside the presidential automobile parade to the state house.

A considerable crowd cheered Wilson in downtown St. Paul, but approaching the capitol it thinned out and was quiet. At the capitol many automobiles greeted the executive with a din of horns, and hundreds chattering on points of vantage cheered.

Some time this month the famous old battle fleet of the Spanish-American war will be dismantled, run out to sea, and sunk. The ships are now considered obsolete, and useless for further service. The fleet recently had its last review. The ships will be sunk by some of the new dreadnaughts, which is considered a military funeral for the old war vessels.

PERSHING DODGES MORNING CROWDS

Returned Commander-in-Chief Remains in Hotel Until Afternoon.

ELKS' BANQUET TONIGHT

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—General John J. Pershing escaped a resumption today of the "tug-of-war" between the city and the army, by remaining in his hotel apartment until, time to scout in Central park, this afternoon. The general was assigned to act as the guest of honor at the Elks' banquet, which was held at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, where he was to sing, patriotic songs and hear him speak.

Tonight at 8 o'clock General Pershing will be the guest at a reception tendered him by the Elks. He is a member of the El Paso lodge and a large delegation of Elks from all over the country are here in his honor.

General Pershing will lead the parade of the first division tomorrow, mounted on his favorite sorrel horse, "Kildron." The big animal, which attracted attention in the parades in which he participated in Paris and London, was brought back from France on Sept. 1, on the transport "Kentuckian."

The picked regiment of six-foot soldiers, who volunteered the administration of French and English, were rushed from the Leithan to Camp Merritt yesterday to prepare for their parade appearance.

General Pershing arose this morning shortly after 6 o'clock and breakfasted with his family in his hotel suite.

General Pershing will leave New York for Philadelphia on a special train, at 8 o'clock Friday morning. He has accepted an invitation from Mayor Smith to visit Philadelphia and will remain there for a couple of hours before proceeding to Washington. He is to arrive at the capital at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Must Kiss Babies.

General Pershing was presented today by Lieutenant Jefferson Sigle Post, of the American Legion, with a Virginia thoroughbred horse, which will be ridden in the parade tomorrow by Colonel Quackenbush, of the commander's staff.

When General Pershing went to the riding academy where the presentation was made, the building soon was surrounded by a crowd anxious to see him. Many mothers with babies in their arms were present, and appeared anxious to have the general kiss their children. He complied in the cases of two or three who were most insistent. When he returned to his hotel he found many more mothers anxious to have the distinction conferred upon their infants and he again had to run the gauntlet before reaching his room.

Denies Bank Story.

Brig. Gen. Chas. G. Dawes denied today a story originating in the United States today in a statement made through the United Press by Premier Lloyd George.

"Great Britain congratulates America on the safe return of General Pershing," the premier said, "and is confident that his magnificent services in the interest of the allied and associated powers will be acclaimed by the great American people throughout the land."

Field Marshal Haig personally thanked his appreciation to Pershing.

MUNCIE TO GET BIG AUTO PLANT

(By United Press)
MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 9.—The General Motors corporation of Detroit, through an announcement made public here today, declares its intention of spending from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 in Muncie within the next eighteen months and to employ from 6,000 to 8,000 men.

Announcement of the product of the local plants was withheld for the time being. Immediate employment will be given to 1,800 men in the construction of the new buildings.

NEW FACTORY AT NEW HAVEN

Visible Automatic Pump Company Buys the Plant of Crema Rice Co.

CAPITAL STOCK $100,000

The directors of the Visible Automatic Pump company of this city have practically closed the deal for the plant of the Crema Rice company for a consideration said to be approximately $100,000 and will locate their new factory at New Haven. It was decided to purchase the Crema plant at a meeting of the directors held on August 26.

An option also has been taken on all land lying east of the Muncie Elevator company, it is understood. The company has filed the incorporation papers with the county recorder, Frank C. Cunningham. The capital stock is fixed at $100,000, half preferred and half common, divided into shares of $100 each. The incorporators named as directors are Augustus Bower, August E. C. Becker, Guy R. Brochin, D. F. Bash, G. Max Hoffman, Roland Hoffman, A. Chanton, William H. Moelling, C. Neal and Charles J. Scheiman.

At a meeting held some time ago in the town hall in New Haven for the purpose of securing the opinion of the residents of the town on the proposition a subscription blank was circulated and $7,180 was secured as an offer to donate to the location of the new factory. Since then more than $10,000 has been subscribed and the offer was made to the directors as a gift from the citizens of New Haven.

The excellent shipping facilities of New Haven attracted the directors of the new concern to that town, as well as the available area of land desired.

Mass Meeting is Held.

At a mass meeting held in New Haven some time ago, arrangements were proposed to furnish the factory with enough experienced, tank mechanics to open the factory, nearly all of whom are residents of New Haven. Little is known of the future plans of the company, but it is thought that the rice plant will be used for the time being and an addition will be built in the near future.

Will Build Homes.

The locating of the new factory in New Haven will result in the erection of a large number of new homes there. A movement already has been proposed to form a realty company for this purpose, although nothing has been decided upon as yet.

STRIKERS KILLED IN FIERCE FIGHT

Foreigners Open Fire on Hammond Police Who Answer With Volley—Three Strikers Are Killed and Twenty-seven Wounded, Two Probably Fatally—American Workmen at Car Company Take No Part in Battle—Situation Is Well in Hand.

(By United Press)
HAMMOND, Ind., Sept. 9.—Three foreigners are dead, two are dying and twenty-five wounded as the outcome of rioting early today by striking workers of the Standard Steel Car company, on strike for six weeks.

The rioting broke out at 8:30 this morning when 400 foreigners, with a uniformed soldier carrying an American flag, marched through the streets in an attempt to prevent 150 American employees from returning to work at the plant. Police met them and ordered them to disperse. They opened fire on the police, who returned the volley, killing three of the marchers.

The Americans, taking no active part in the strike, returned to work today in an attempt to prevent being molested. They were machinists, electricians and other skilled laborers.

At 9 o'clock the police had the situation in hand and no further outbreak was looked for. The sheriff's forces were co-operating with the police.

Threats Are Made.

The striking foreigners, after being dispersed by police, soon gathered just outside the city limits and held a meeting. "Ten coppers before the day is over," was the threat made by the foreigners, according to police.

Threatened Workmen.

(By Associated Press)
HAMMOND, Ind., Sept. 9.—Five strikers were killed and fifteen were wounded today in a battle between 1,000 former employees of the Standard Steel Car company and the police.

Two months ago 2,000 workmen at the plant went on strike for increased wages and improved working conditions. Five weeks ago there was a riot between strikers and the police in which a number of persons were injured and as a result of this outbreak Governor Goodrich sent a regiment of the Indiana state militia to Hammond to restore order. The troops were withdrawn about two weeks ago. Yesterday 200 strikers returned to work and this caused considerable bad feeling among the men who refused to return.

Today when the 200 men were on their way to work a crowd of 1,000 former strikers gathered in the street several blocks from the plant to the Standard Steel Car company and threatened them. Twenty policemen and twenty special guards employed by the company were rushed to the scene and the crowd was ordered to disperse.

The order was greeted with jeers.

Text of President's Speech to State Legislature of Minnesota

(By United Press)
ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 9.—President Wilson's speech before the Minnesota legislature follows:

Mr. Speaker, your excellency, gentlemen of the legislature, ladies and gentlemen.

I esteem it an unusual pleasure to stand in this place today and to address the members of this great body, because the errand upon which I left Washington is so intimately a matter of the life of our nation as well as the life of the world.

And yet I am conscious standing in this presence that perhaps the most appropriate thing I could say are those which affect us immediately.

I know that you have been called together in special session for special objects. One of these objects is to have a sufficient amount of free capital to put the industries of the world up and finally on its feet.

Until the industry of the world is put on its feet, you can't finally handle the question of living conditions. The cost of living in the last analysis depends on the thing we are always talking about and don't know how to manage—the law of supply and demand.

It depends upon manufacture and distribution, it depends upon all the normal processes of the industrial and commercial world, it depends upon international credit, it depends upon transportation facilities and shipping.

Our railroads at this moment are not adequate to moving the commerce of the country and every here and there they run through a little or diverted.

MOVE TO CANCEL WAGE CONTRACT

United Mine Workers of America in Important Meeting at Cleveland.

STEELMEN VOTE TODAY

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Sept. 9.—Acting President John L. Lewis, in his report to the committee of the U. M. W. of A., increased the cost of living and the improbability of any sweeping action, as a preface to his recommendation for a cancellation of the Washington wage agreement in the bituminous coal industry.

In other parts of his report he discussed difficulties with the United States railway administration resulting from the efforts of Director General Houston to secure such a rate fixed by the United States fuel administration; expressed fear that the success of such efforts would tend to force coal industries to accept a rate fixed by the government; and declared against having anything to do with the coal industry.

He reported on damage actions brought against the United Mine Workers organization from Congress an amendment to the Clayton anti-trust act to prevent the possibility of such suits against labor. He said the committee had here, desire to continue the course in the advanced institutions of learning. ORDINANCE FOR EXTENSION OF CITY ON FINAL PASSAGE

At the Regular Meeting of the City Council to Be Held This Evening.

MANY MATTERS TO BE UP

The city council will consider tonight the final passage of an ordinance for the expansion of the city limits. From all indications, the greater tract will be taken on the west side, to include much of the rolling mill district. It is understood that the amount of land to be presented for the consideration of the council is not as much as originally intended.

Cases of farm land where not platted were not considered. Southeast of the city, and south of the Pennsylvania yards, there is a good deal of property being considered; also territory near the Centerville Beverage company.

It is also probable that an ordinance fixing the tax levy will be passed. An ordinance is being considered to authorize the issuance of bonds to take care of the bonds originally issued for the water works department, which come due this fall.

The council committee will report action taken on the government food proposition.

tonight, and other meetings will be held throughout the week, both of the Friends, and also the Hibernians and the Ladies Auxiliary of the A. O. H. An attempt is being made at a joint program, which will be announced at the termination of the series of meets.

GROUP HEADS APPOINTED

Everything Ready for Chamber of Commerce Meetings.

Due to the warm weather last night the attendance at the Chamber of Commerce for the chairman of the group committees was not large. Those who were courageous enough, however, to do battle with the elements, enjoyed the session very much, and at the opening of the group meeting next Thursday night with groups one and two, an excellent attendance is expected.

A general discussion of the program of the Chamber of Commerce was indulged in last night, and the one big program that seemed to nearly all to be the most vital, was the housing question. The argument was advanced that the housing program should be carried out first, after which the industrial plan could be handled.

It was pointed out that with a shortage of houses here, why should new industries be brought here, and be handicapped in their endeavor of locating in suitable homes their employees, whereas the housing might be taken care of first.

The method of handling these meetings appeals to all. Each member is asked to write his idea of the general situation here in Fort Wayne and suggest plans for betterment and enlargement of the city's business life.

POLICE TO BREAK UP GANG OF TOUGHS WHO STOP CARS

Five Alleged Rowdies Locked Up on Charge of Beating Boys and Insulting Girls.

MORE ARRESTS TO FOLLOW

The police department is today continuing its efforts to break up a gang of roughnecks, who have for some time made a practice of stopping automobiles at night, near the southern limits of the city, insulting women and beating male companions, if any are with them. Five alleged rowdies, Elmer Ormiston, Harold Burk, Addison Blanks, John Mycum and Hartman Deel, arrested in connection with the officers' efforts to punish the offenders, were arraigned in the city court this morning on disorderly conduct charges. Their cases were continued until tomorrow morning to gather more evidence, and each of the defendants is being held under a bond of $100. This gang has been causing the police much trouble, but have so far been able to evade arrest. More arrests in the cleaning up of the band of rowdies are expected to be made before tonight.

The five fellows arraigned in police court today were arrested at 11 o'clock last evening in the 4500 block South Calhoun street, after an onslaught of high school boys and girls had been attacked as they were driving into the city from the south.

The boys in the car were beaten and otherwise roughly handled, while the girls were insulted. One of the youths in the car kicked one of the ruffians in the chest when he grabbed one of the girls by the legs and tried to drag her from the machine. After a considerable battle one of the boys managed to get the car started and drove toward the city. They told of their difficulty to Stationmaster Fred Fry, Special Officer Peter Junk and Officer Bert Reasoner, who drove back to the scene in the high school youths' car. By this time the gang climbed into a Ford and were driving in the opposite direction. Thinking that the car still only contained the high school students, the five alleged rowdies stopped their car, evidently intending to put up a battle.

The officers drew their pistols and when their queries were who their pursuers were, they soon submitted to arrest. When the officers had brought the Ford and the quintet to the station, they found a .38-calibre loaded revolver in the car.

A number of cars have recently been stopped by young ruffians in the vicinity where the machine was stopped last evening, and the police are determined to break up the band of ruffians.

WILSON FAILS TO GET RESULTS HE DESIRES

after leaving Chicago has not been completed.

Reservations Probable. (By United Press.) WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Democratic senators will accept reservations to the peace treaty only as a last resort, Senator Hitchcock, administration spokesman said today.

At the same time Hitchcock said he "supposed" he would have to accept reservations in the end if there is no other way to get votes for ratification.

Hitchcock's utterances follow the stand by President Wilson against all reservations which was expressed by Senator Hitchcock's home state of Nebraska.

Hitchcock, however, repeated his belief that reservations as part of the ratification resolution are not favored by the majority of democratic senators, who, he declared, are standing with the president on the pact.

Hitchcock said he was not worried by the attitude of several democrats who have come to the belief that reservations are unavoidable.

"Beat the amendments is my slogan now," Hitchcock said.

While democrats are "fishing" to see how much they have to concede, the Lodge group and the "mild reservationists" among republicans are reported to be approaching settlement of their differences over the reservation to article ten.

Lodge today said he is not committed to the foreign relations committee reservation, but that he regards it as a basis for argument. He indicated he is willing to go part way in meeting the mild reservation group.

Lodge expects to file his report on the treaty with the senate Wednesday and Hitchcock will file his minority report about the same time. Both expect to speak when they file their reports.

Reading of the treaty to the senate, article by article, will begin next week.

Senator Harding, who is preparing an answer to the president, hoped to complete his speech today, but the date of delivery is uncertain.

Canada Aroused Against League. (By United Press.) OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 9.—Ratification of the peace treaty by Canada will commit this country to foreign wars and may conceivably lead to a situation where Canada will be aligned against the motherland, according to the argument advanced in the house of commons late yesterday by D. D. McKenzie, leader of the opposition party in the house. McKenzie spoke at length in opening the treaty debate.

Canada entered the war on her own volition, he said, and should be content to remain in the same position regarding her participation in future wars. He declared that ratification of the treaty carried with it acceptance of the league of nations with "troublesome" article ten "obligating the signatories to maintain the integrity of all other signatory nations."

"Suppose," McKenzie said, "and it is not inconceivable, that Great Britain and Italy became embroiled and the decision of league of nations was against Britain. Canada, with membership in that league, as a separate nation, would be bound to act as the councilor, while Great Britain might defy the league and declare war on Italy. Canada then would have to take up arms against the motherland."

A. L. Sifton, one of the delegates who signed the treaty for Canada, at Versailles, pointed out that McKenzie's argument was directly opposed to the view of Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Wilson.

and the men refused to obey. Captain Ben Strong, in charge of the mob, then ordered the leaders of the mob arrested. When the police attempted to execute the command the crowd attacked the police and special guards with sticks and stones and several of the strikers drew revolvers and fired a number of shots, according to Captain Ben Strong.

The police then retaliated by firing about seventy-five shots into the crowd, killing five and wounding fifteen strikers.

Later the strike leaders were taken into custody.

None of the policemen or special guards were wounded in the fight.

Led by Soldier. According to the police, the mob of strikers was led by Lieutenant Thomas Skuba, 21, a Pole who recently was discharged from the United States army. He wore his soldier uniform and carried an American flag which he waved during the fight. He later was arrested.

The authorities are taking precautions against a recurrence of the trouble when the 200 strikers who returned to work leave the company's plant this evening.

MOVE TO CANCEL MINERS' CONTRACT

to enable mine workers to meet it, he said.

The committee on policy in March had drawn up a series of recommendations, which he enumerated, but no wage movement had been thought advisable this summer, owing to the industrial depression. In no way responsible for the failure of the senate to ratify the treaty of peace and thus officially terminate the Washington wage agreement, the United Mine Workers should no longer be considered bound by that agreement. He therefore recommended that the convention terminate the Washington agreement not later than Nov. 1, that in the event no satisfactory basic agreement be reached by that date there be no sectional settlements by districts, but that there be "a complete cessation of all mine operations throughout entire jurisdiction" and that any satisfactory basic agreement reached in the central competitive field automatically affect all outlying districts.

Concerning nationalization of coal mines, recommended by the same committee on policy, Mr. Lewis said that the international officials had been asked to have the desired draft of legislation prepared in time for the convention. He, therefore, placed the entire matter before the delegates for their consideration.

Two Thousand There. (By Associated Press.) CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 9.—With some 2,000 delegates from the colonies and provinces of Canada gathered in the armory of the Cleveland Grays, the international convention of the United Mine Workers of America, the twenty-fifth consecutive gathering of the organization was called to order this morning. Events have conspired to make it probably the most important in the history of the United Mine Workers. Since 1914, apart from the possibility of trouble contained, it is almost certain demands for higher wages and shorter hours, the miners of Great Britain are looking to it for support, and it is the question of the six-hour day and thirty-hour week, and of the nationalization of coal mines.

Both articles of the British miners' agenda upon the Cleveland convention. Favorable action, which is anticipated, is expected to react sympathetically upon the struggle across the Atlantic. Of great significance in view of the desire to secure the support of organized labor for the Plumb plan for the nationalization of the railway was the presence upon the opening program of Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; Timothy J. Shea, acting president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers; W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, who at a late hour had been added to those to extend a Cleveland welcome to the convention.

The response by acting President John L. Lewis, of the United Workers of America, in the chair of the convention owing to the illness of President Frank J. Hayes, will inaugurate the deliberations of the convention, which is expected to last from two to three weeks. Today's session will be devoted almost entirely to the opening ceremonies, the work of organizing and co-ordinating the reports of acting President Lewis and of the treasurer, William Green, which are expected to lay the foundations for the work of the delegates in regard to wages and hours of labor, nationalization of mines, etc.

No decisions on these subjects are expected until later in the week, since the proposed changes in wage scale committee, comprising the twenty-seven district presidents of the miners' organization and co-ordinated by it and other resolutions passed upon by the committee on resolutions which can scarcely complete its labors before Thursday.

Among the resolutions which will cause most discussion are several calling for immediate ratification of the treaty of peace, together with one opposing participation in the league of nations. Other resolutions submitted for consideration furnish the substance of material for discussion of pending political questions connected with the war and readjustment to peace conditions.

Would Avoid Strike. (By Associated Press.) DETROIT, Sept. 9.—Government and labor organization officials are expected to reach Detroit tonight and tomorrow to confer with officers and organization committees in an endeavor to reach an understanding that will avoid the tie-up of rail transportation threatening in this country and Canada by the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers, in convention here.

More Go Out. (By Associated Press.) SCRANTON, Pa., Fourteen thousand employees of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal company in its mines within Lackawanna county today obeyed the strike order of their grievance committee.

They went on strike in support of the company's miners at Archbald, who are pining against the discharge of those who refused to do emergency work at laborers' wages.

Steel Men Vote Today. WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Representing workers in all mill centers, presidents of 24 steel and metal trade unions were arriving here today for a special strike vote meeting. The meeting is scheduled to begin late this afternoon.

Reading of a telegram from President Wilson to President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, will be the first business taken up.

Although the message has not been made public, the president, it is believed, has taken action that will cause the steel men to delay calling a strike, at least until October 6, the date of the "round table" industrial conference.

It is unlikely the steel men will act in any way until the return of Gompers, who was called to his father's bedside at Dorchester, Mass., yesterday.

The steel workers are demanding recognition of their union by the United States Steel corporation after Judge Elbert H. Gary twice refused to receive a workers committee headed by John Fitzpatrick and William Foster, chairman and secretary of the organization committee. Gary's refusal automatically placed the national officers in a position where they must call a strike or disobey the orders of the workers, as expressed in a recent convention in Youngstown, Ohio, according to Fitzpatrick.

The strike call was withheld, it was explained, to give Gompers a chance to telegraph the president at St. Louis, asking him to intercede with Gary.

only wanted to keep it in a safe, judge, so it wouldn't get away. I didn't have any intentions of using the money at all," said the defendant, a hired hand at William Biele farm, near Huntington, when he was arraigned in city court this morning on a charge of petit larceny. Worcester, over, failed to tell the judge why he didn't say something about his big missing sum of money in the safe when he was asked to do so. The judge inquired what had become of it, until after Deputy Sheriff Alcott got through with him. He's where I did wrong, said Worcester, "I should have told them I had put the money in a safe, and where I put it, but I forgot about it." The judge couldn't say it should have been necessary for Deputy Sheriff's services to ask Worcester's memory, and accordingly fined the defendant $10 costs, and sentenced him to ten days in jail.

Report From Weather Bureau Favorable Today.

According to the weather man today, the heat wave which has held Fort Wayne in its grasp since Saturday, is due to break tonight. Ninety-two degrees was the highest temperature registered officially, and that prevailed at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. That the wave will break soon, however, is probable, as a hurricane has formed south of the Florida coast, which will draw winds from the north. With northerly winds prevailing, there is a chance for cooler weather.

At 7 o'clock this morning a temperature of 73 degrees was recorded. It is probable that the temperature will be lowered by about six degrees tomorrow morning. There are no indications of a storm locally which might give relief.

Since 1908 the record of temperature in September has not registered more than ninety-two degrees. In that year it was ninety-five degrees on the 24th. The highest temperature known for September, which the records here show, was in 1899, when the thermometer registered ninety-seven degrees. September of last year was rather cool, with eighty degrees as the highest mark, and 1917 was only slightly warmer, having a temperature of eighty-four degrees.

NOTRE DAME SUMMER HOME

Order of School Sisters Obtains New Homestead.

The homestead of the late Frances Rose Howe was purchased through a deal made by the School Sisters of Notre Dame, and will be used as a summer home and school for sisters of the order. The mother home of the order is located at Milwaukee, Wis., and plans are being laid to erect larger buildings on the new site and make it a permanent home. The location of the mother home will not be changed though.

The holdings include about forty acres of land not far from the beach of Lake Michigan and three miles west of Chesterton, Ind. Miss Howe, the owner of the estate, died recently at more than eighty years of age. She was a descendant of the Indians and a pioneer resident of this district. An Indian chapel on the land acquired through the deal, will be preserved. The purchase does not include the entire Howe estate of 280 acres.

The location in Indiana will be a decided advantage to the order, since teaching is being conducted at the two local parishes, St. Mary's and St. Peter's and also a number of points adjacent to Fort Wayne.

GOVERNMENT BUYING OF COAL BOOSTING PRICES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—An interesting theory as to the cause of soaring prices of bituminous coal is presented by Harry N. Taylor, president of the National Coal association, a national organization of coal bodies of bituminous operators. He asserts that the present buying policy of the United States railroad administration is forcing the public to pay higher prices. He made the following statement today:

"The railroad demand is the nucleus of the business of bituminous coal operators. It absorbs about 30 per cent of the production. It moves a steady, all-year demand. Bituminous operators want to hold this business, but the railroad administration has lately been paying 10 to 25 cents a ton less for its purchases than the fixed price determined by the fuel administration under Dr. Garfield in the face of advanced costs since experienced by mine operators. "During the period in which the government fixed the price of coal Dr. Garfield took the position that his cost figures as ascertained by the governmental bodies represented the cost of producing all the coal and that the railroads should pay the same price for coal as other consumers, based on these costs. Dr. Garfield also held that the practice in vogue before the war of forcing the coal producers, through their great purchasing power, to supply the railroads at a lower price—often at less than the cost of production—acted with great unfairness upon the public and the small consumers, who were called upon to make up by high prices the deficiency caused by the low price on railroad coal.

"With the removal of the fuel administration restrictions the railroad administration, through its concentrated buying power, centralized in the general purchasing committee, has used every possible means to reduce the price of coal to the railroads to a figure below the price set by the government through the fuel administration. It is well to note that these prices were arrived at by the fuel administration on the basis of costs for a period when all the mines were working full time with the depression, armistice and broken times at the mines the cost of coal has steadily increased, while the price especially that obtained for the portion furnished the railroads, has steadily decreased to a point far below the price set by the fuel administration. "Geological survey figures showed that between Jan. 1 and the opening of May the production of bituminous coal decreased 70,000,000 tons as compared with the output in the same time in 1918. These alarming figures and the continued shortage in production resulting from the lack of a market showed plainly to those familiar with the coal trade that the public was not placing sufficient orders to keep mines in operation, regardless of the fact that coal was still being offered at prices fixed by the government. "Feeling that it would be impossible to make up in the few remaining months the shortage that was being created unless immediate action was taken the National Coal association, in order to avoid public blame later, decided to present the situation clearly before consumers. So we placed advertisements in the leading papers of the United States, calling attention to the government's figures and to the fact that if the public continued to delay buying and attempted to concentrate coal purchases in a few months it would be impossible for the railroads to handle the extraordinary volume of business. We pointed out that this increased business would make an additional demand on transportation at a time

40,000 Miles---

ONE Set of

De Luxe Tires

For four years the Cary Shinkle Transfer Co., Anderson, Ind., have been able to dismiss tire worries from their mind.

In the bang-up service of rapid daily deliveries, a set of Goodrich De Luxe Truck Tires kept piling up mileages until it reached the enormous total of 40,000 miles per tire.

Look at this achievement in the light of savings. Through service, these De Luxe Tires actually reduced the original purchase price to one-sixth.

Or, in other words, Mr. Shinkle, through service, got six tires for the price of one.

In downright savings De Luxe Tires excel—scores of Indiana users will tell you so. Let your next tire investment be De Luxe.

President Wilson's latest fulmination is to the effect that the opponents of his precious league are "Pro-Germans." Henry Cabot Lodge, for example.

Incidentally, attention is called to the fact that nowhere in the covenant of the league of nations is there even an implied reference to God or faith in God.

And while the president is out demanding "ratification without amendment" the democrats in congress are talking "compromise"—which means, of course, surrender.

We take it from a perusal of the seething columns of the Journal-Gazette that the members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians who passed those resolutions last week are hopelessly, helplessly, and damnable insane.

The farmers need dry, hot weather to ripen the corn, and cool, wet weather to get the ground in proper condition for wheat planting. So a man has that to be happy for or grouchy for. It's merely a question of disposition.

The Journal-Gazette now refers to "sane Irish-Americans" as a class. This implies the existence of an insane class, and by a natural process of deduction the conclusion is reached that all those who support the contentions of Messrs. Dunne, Walsh, and Ryan are bughouse. Well, the aggregation is both numerically large and personally impressive.

The announcement that a three-fourths interest in the Indianapolis News is owned by the estate of the late C. W. Fairbanks is decidedly interesting but it should be borne in mind that the holding was acquired just prior to his death. Certainly no one is so light minded as to believe that Mr. Fairbanks controlled the News in 1908 when it so ardently supported William Jennings Bryan for the presidency or that he was the power behind the throne in those later days when it whooped it up for Wilson and free trade. Mr. Fairbanks was an honest and conscientious man and it goes without saying that he would not as a business proposition permit his property to be used in the furtherance of governmental policies he abominated.

"SOLEMN EARNESTNESS"

The Indianapolis Star, a frantic and frothing advocate of the league of nations, remarks rather ingenuously:

"Some opponents of the league of nations are trying to misrepresent the fact that there was no riotous demonstration in Indianapolis when the president came to address the people. It would be unfortunate if tactics were adopted by the presidential party to create a furor of enthusiasm. President Wilson is out to explain to the country what the league of nations means. He is appealing to the judgment of thoughtful citizens and does not want indorsement of the hurrah variety."

A rather lame excuse for a decidedly chilly reception. This talk of "appealing to the judgment of thoughtful citizens" is all very touching, but experience has taught us that when the people are with a man occupying President Wilson's position they make the fact known in a demonstrative fashion. They whoop, and hurrah, and beat the tom-toms and burn the red fire. That's all there is to it and any assertion to the contrary is the sheerest piffle. President Wilson was given a chilly reception in Indianapolis for the reason that the people did not warm up to his plan for canonizing this country and putting it to brood a lot of European salamanders.

MORE BACK PAY.

They're "figgerin' back pay" again down at the Pennsylvania. And down at the Wabash, too, and down at every other railroad shop in the country. Word has been received from Washington to the effect that every man hired on or after July 25, 1918, must be rated either as a mechanic or a helper and compensated at the rate of 68 cents an hour. The management of the shops is instructed to look up all employees and former employees affected and see to it that they get the money.

This is going to involve no little work on the part of the local authorities. In 1918 they were taking on anything that looked like a man, and as a consequence employed many who were merely out for temporary employment. College boys, high school boys, and Weary Willies were given jobs and after a few weeks' service were allowed to go. These men and boys were employed at the rate of twenty-nine cents an hour, which looked mighty good to most of them and was more than some of them were worth, yet under the new ruling they must be ruthlessly hunted down and forced to take the difference between twenty-nine cents and sixty-eight cents, with time and a half for overtime. As the shops were working ten hours a day during this period, it can readily be seen that the "back pay" will reach a rather tidy sum. And coming as a genuine surprise it makes a noise like automobiles, diamonds rings, and trips to the seashore. The sums to be thus paid out range all the way from $150 to $650.

But what's the blooming odds? If Uncle Sam hasn't the cash he has the power to tax and, glory be, those who can produce taxes.

CHEAP POLITICS.

The attention of this paper is called to a scurrilous attack in a local paper on Prosecutor Todd for dismissing the case against one Rowe charged with the Parratt murder. It is an insincere article as well, for the writer of it knows perfectly that the case against Rowe completely collapsed upon investigation. His story was investigated by Chief Abbott and was found to be in every essential a true one, a perfect alibi of the man being established at Youngstown, Ohio. Naturally, when the investigation disclosed the facts to be as they were, Prosecutor Todd dismissed the case and Rowe was given his liberty. Any other action would have been both absurd and wrong, for certainly nothing of advantage could have been gained by having a trial which could have but one conclusion. And even had the authorities been convinced that a conviction could have been secured by reason of Rowe's inability to secure his evidence, it would nevertheless have been their duty to dismiss the case, having once satisfied themselves of his innocence. Railroaders guiltless men to prison in order to establish a reputation for efficiency is, praise God, not now a policy in Allen county. Mr. Todd was thoroughly and completely justified in his action in the Rowe case and the malicious and inspired attack upon him is all too manifestly designed for political effect. And political effect it is likely to have, although hardly of the nature its author intended. A discriminating public clearly senses the malign and unworthy purport of the screed and places upon it the stamp of its disapproval. Nothing is to be gained by insistence on the prosecution of a case where the prosecution would be bootless or where an unjust conviction would be obtained. Prosecutor Todd was fully sustained by the facts in his action in the Rowe case and any intimation that he was not is shallow, hypocritical, and vicious.

A FEW QUESTIONS.

Jonathan Bourne, Jr., puts lard on the track of the presidential train and slows the thing down long enough for him to propound the following questions to the All-High:

We went to war because "the Imperial German government has committed repeated acts of war against the government and the people of the United States of America," as stated in the war declaration itself. We were associates but never allies of the nations at war against Germany. In view of that fact

Why is the United States embroiled in a controversy between Japan and China over the disposition of a portion of the latter's territory?

Just why should America be a party to the formation of the new Czechoslovak state, appoint a commissioner for tracing its boundaries on the ground, etc.?

In spite of our love for the music of President Padewski, would Americans lose any sleep if the boundaries of Poland did not follow the line Kreise of Lochschultz, Katscher, Ratibor-Oderberg railway, and Kranowitz?

What interest have we in the establishment of the Free City of Danzig, and do more than one per cent of our people know where it is or care why it is to be free?

Of what interest is it to America that Germany should give England its former property at Shamen in Canton?

Although we have unbounded sympathy for Belgium why should it take the form of guaranteeing that she shall receive 520 stations, 5,000 mares, 5,000 fillies, 2,000 bulls, 50,000 milch cows, 40,000 heifers, 200 rams, 20,000 sheep, 15,000 cows?

Did we go to war in order to compel Germany to surrender her cables from the straits of Dover to Fayal, from Dunkirk to Teneriffe, or from Constantinople to Consantans?

Do we particularly care whether or not the king of the Hedjaz recovers the original Koran of the Caliph Othman?

Is the final disposition of the skull of the Sultan Mikawa of moment to America?

What business is it of ours where the triptych of the Mystic Lamb finds repose?

What advantage does America derive from compelling the Germans to fit their freight cars with apparatus so as to allow their inclusion in "goods trains" of the allies?

Why should we guarantee the right of the Czechoslovak state to construct a railroad from Schlaney to Nachod—wherever that may be?

Let no one believe for a moment that Mr. Bourne is speaking facetiously. He is not, as those familiar with the terms of the treaty can attest. The United States is really asked to become a party to a treaty which includes all of these matters—the disposition of the skull of the outlandish sultan, the recovery of the original Koran of the Caliph Othman, and all those other absurd provisions. We are asked to concern ourselves in matters which are none of our business, and to busy ourselves with affairs which cannot by any stretch of the imagination be made of interest here.

This country went to war with Germany for a reason which in nowise concerned Europe, and it would be very well for us to conclude separate peace with Germany. A peace which links us to the precarious fortunes of Europe will be, indeed, a costly and a bitter peace.

THE MINISTER'S WIFE.

Having touched upon the woes of the minister, embarrassed by a small salary in this time of high cost of living, it would seem to leave the story but half told unless we reverted to the woes of the minister's wife. For really upon her rather than upon the minister himself does the actual burden of solving the hard problem of life fall. It is her province to perform her own household work, including the cooking, washing, ironing, and mending for a large family of small children, and at the same time hold herself in readiness to lead in the social and religious work of the parish. When a congregation employs a minister at a mean and niggardly salary, it somehow assumes as a matter of course that this mean and niggardly salary also lays just claim on the services of the minister's wife, and she is expected to assume, not the leadership, but the hard work of the church. It is her part to entertain "the ladies' aid," to work in the kitchen when sociables are held, to visit the sick, to conduct the work of the missionary society, to comfort widows and orphans, to entertain visiting ministers (if of no particular consequence) to lend a helping hand in revivals, and to attend all religious exercises including the mid-week prayer meeting accompanied by her flock of neatly washed and neatly dressed children. Oh, it's a hell of a job that's cut out for the average minister's wife, and the expression is used advisedly and circumspetly. And when it is considered that she is expected to do all this on no capital except her own pluck and resourcefulness, her problem becomes one designed to appall the stoutest heart.

It is all very well to say that the impossible is not expected and that no one desires that she so strenuously devote herself, yet the fact remains that the congregation as a body does expect it. Unless the minister's wife "shows a proper interest in his work" and "proves herself a worthy helpmate," there is soon a current of adverse criticism setting in and this ultimately reacts upon the minister himself. It is no fiction to contend that when a congregation employs a minister, it in a large sense employs the minister's wife. Since this is true, since team service is expected and required, it is the more of a disgrace and a reflection upon the congregation that fails to provide a salary sufficient to enable the minister's wife to employ help to relieve her in a measure from the drudgery of housework.

Inasmuch as this is the age when society is inclined to look calmly at facts as they really are and to make provision for the laborer—when the square deal and justice are being acclaimed—we propose to say a word for a class that seems likely to be overlooked. The children of light appear to lack the ability to speak for themselves or, at least, to make their voices heard. It's high time for a lot of nickel-nurses, tight-wads, and skin-flints who tenaciously hang on to their church membership at little or no expense to wake up to the fact that those who give to the poor lend to the Lord and that the place to find real poverty is in the parsonage.

The Woes of the Minister on a Small Salary

TRAVELETTE (By Robson Mt. Nikash)

Perhaps the wildest park in the world is Canada's recently created Mt. Robson park, located in the northern Canadian Rockies. It was made a part of the Canadian park system just before the war, and very few people have ever visited it because it is practically devoid of roads and trails. In 1913 the park boasted a single inhabitant. Mt. Robson itself is an excellent sample of the tremendous and almost overwhelming beauty of the northern Rockies, which are heavily forested in fir and spruce, as a steep cone of bare rock 8,000 feet high. Great glaciers armor its sides and front, and it is helmeted with snow. From the snow cap and the glaciers descend swift clear streams that leap over ledges in heavy cataracts, blowing like veils in the wind, and roaring through deep stone gorges, until they plunge into the forested regions below. Just above the timberline, between the region of barren rock and that of deep forest, there is a belt of soil which in summer is like a garland about the mountain's waist. For it is one great field of wild flowers. Purple aster, campons, and the flame red of Indian paint brush are here in solid acres of brilliant color. Mt. Robson is a big game region which has scarcely been touched by hunters. There are many moose in the heavy forests at its feet, and the caribou range high up. The grizzly bear is present in almost primitive abundance, and there he sometimes shows the fearless truculence for which he was everywhere famous before the day of the repeating rifle.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. Can earthquakes be forecast?
T. H. B. A. The best authorities on earthquakes explain that they are due to the slipping of one edge on the other at a fault or crack in the earth's crust. The main fault in the western hemisphere extends from Alaska to the French Frigate Shoal in the Pacific coast. The geologists know where there has been no slipping for a long time, and figure that readjustments are due at those points. They forecast earthquakes at those points.

Q. Can a bungalow have two stories?
A. L. D. A. The bungalow has all its rooms on one floor. There are cottages of the bungalow type that have two stories.

Q. What is meant by a tight scalp?
U. G. T. An unnatural condition of the scalp sometimes causes it to become abnormally tight and consequently unhealthy. Massage every day for a while will loosen it up, stimulate the circulation of the blood in it, and cure it.

Q. How tall was Napoleon Bonaparte?
T. D. C. A. Historians say that at the time of his coronation Napoleon Bonaparte was a little under five feet three inches, but he became stooped in later life and at his death measured scarcely over five feet.

Q. Has there ever been a colored man in the United States senate?
A. V. A. There have been two colored senators in the United States senate. They were Hiram R. Revels, 41st congress, 1870-1871, and Blanche K. Bruce, 47th congress, 1875-1881.

Q. What is the meaning of the initials R. S. V. P.?
E. C. The initials are the first letters of the French sentence "Repondez s'il vous plait," which means "Reply if you please."

Q. Where are hair nets made?
E. T. A. Many hair nets are made in Shanghai, that part of China which is in the spotlight because of the Japanese situation. There are whole villages in which the women are working these hair nets by hand. They are made of the hair of the Chinese and are dyed.

Q. What was the number of ships engaged in the battle of Jutland?
D. W. A. Many contradictory accounts of this battle have been written, but the best figures credit the British with having thirty-seven dreadnaughts, eight battle cruisers, and many light cruisers and destroyers, either engaged in the battle or in adjacent waters. The Germans are believed to have used sixteen dread-

Specimen Fruit From Geographical Studies by Colonel House and Staff

(New York Sun.) In the president's speech at Indianapolis this statement will be found near the beginning: "You will remember that a prince of the house of Austria was slain in one of the cities of Serbia. Serbia was one of the small kingdoms of Europe. She had no strength which any of the great powers needed to fear."

A prince of the house of Austria was slain in Sarajevo, which is not in Serbia but in Bosnia. Bosnia has been under Austrian domination since the treaty of Berlin in 1878, and since 1908 it has been an integral part of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. Previously so 1878 Bosnia had been under Turkish rule for centuries. Sarajevo cannot be described as "one of the cities of Serbia" in 1914 without a glaring misstatement of historical and geographical facts generally known to intelligent people throughout the world.

Perhaps the misinformation is unimportant, but it is amazing that a president of the United States, who has undertaken on his own account to rearrange the boundaries of the big and little nations of Europe, does not know that Sarajevo is in Bosnia and not in Serbia.

All the more surprising in view of the circumstance that Mr. Wilson has taken the good Lord knows how many hundreds of thousands of dollars of the people's money to enable Col. E. M. House to maintain one of the most extensive and costly establishments for historical and geographical research in the Balkans and elsewhere that the world ever saw.

The Case in a Nutshell

(New York Sun.) In his "Put up or shut up" challenge to the American senators to draft a better peace than that which the treaty with the covenant would give us President Wilson is defying the other part of the treaty making power to do exactly that thing which it is his duty to do for the American ability, to do for the country.

The treaty of Versailles, qualified and interpreted by the four reservations adopted by the senate committee, is a masterpiece of diplomatic and political compromise. It is a masterpiece of the international compact, as in the case of the convention of The Hague over the Algeiras convention will give the country a vastly better peace than that on which Mr. Wilson is vociferously insisting on the stump; an immeasurably better peace than the one which he originally projected and which he went abroad on his own hook to accomplish.

This is the right sort of "interweaving." The only sort of interweaving which the American people, to the best of our knowledge and belief, are now prepared to tolerate.

There has been no finer instance of true Americanism overriding the attempt at partisan and presidential dictation than is afforded by the senior senator from Tennessee, the Hon. Jonathan R. Shields, of Knoxville, formerly chief justice of the state, in his vote in committee for three of the four essential reservations, and his announcement of entire sympathy with the purpose and spirit of the fourth while preferring a different form of expression.

All honor to the senators, both republicans and democrats, who have resisted from the first the projected surrender of American sovereignty and independence. All honor to them for continuing to resist this wantonly enterprise of stubborn individualism and self-determined auto-

Fourteen New Points.

(Harvey's Weekly.) Talk of pointed points. Here are fourteen brand new ones aimed at "the wrecker of the democratic party":

"Point one" attacks the appointment of "incompetent men," naming Baker, Burleson and Garfield.

"Point two" charges him with leaving the country to "camouflage through Europe."

"Point three" says he is trying to force America to adopt an "English league of nations."

"Point four" reminds him of his "dilemma" about free nations at Mount Vernon.

"Point five" attacks him for promoting "internationalism."

"Point six" condemns his sending Yankees into Russia, a country "with whom we were not at war."

"Point seven" scores his Mexican policy and the "toleration of the murder of 300 Americans."

"Point eight" says he refused the request of congress to take up Ireland's case at the peace table.

"Point nine" charges him with "barbarism for the south."

"Point ten" attacks his signing of the wartime prohibition act after the armistice.

"Point eleven" attacks his forcing of Panama free tolls.

"Point thirteen" charges him with helping the government to ship goods and shipping vast amounts of food to Europe.

They were addressed to Chairman Homer S. Cummings of the democratic national committee, signed by Mr. Francis J. Finneran, president of the democratic club of Massachusetts, and dispatched by authority of the association.

Mr. Hoover's Double Life

(New York Sun.) Mr. Hoover is sometimes a puzzle. He assures the congressional committee which is in Paris investigating war expenditures that the European warehouses are clogged with food imported from the United States and that the speculators who ship the food abroad have been folled because Europe hasn't the money to buy. Therefore prices in the United States will fall.

In the next breath Mr. Hoover tells the committee that the United States must grant huge credits—billions of dollars—to hungry Europe so that Europe may eat. Loud cheers from the speculators, we fancy, and from the European states also.

What about the ultimate consumer in America? Well, Mr. Hoover says this government must fix maximum and minimum prices. He seems to forget that the government's price policy for wheat is at the base of the pyramid of the artificial prices that now afflict most of the people.

If America is willing to sell unlimited wheat and other food abroad on credit, Europe will be an eager customer. With a fixed price of $2.26 for the grain which sets the pace of almost all costs and a great European demand "on tick," when would prices in the United States ever fall?

Mr. Hoover's trouble is that he tries to lead, in a perfectly respectable way, a double life. He tries to be at once the steward and solicitor of Europe and a citizen of the United States sympathetic with the pains of Americans. It's a hard job.

LIFE'S MYSTERY.
Life's mystery—deep, restless, as the ocean—
Hath surged and waited for ages to and fro;
Earth's generations watch its ceaseless motion
As in and out its hollow moaning flows,
Shivering and yearning by that unknown sea
Let my soul calm itself, O Christ, in Thee.
Life's sorrows, with inexorable power,
Sweep desolation o'er this mortal plain;
And human loves and hopes fly as the chaff
Borne by the whirlwind from the ripened grain,
Ah! when before that blast my hopes all flee
Let my soul calm itself, O Christ, in Thee.
Between the mysteries of death and life
Thou standest, loving, guiding, not explaining;
We ask, and Thou art silent; yet we gaze,
And our charmed hearts forget their drear complaining.
No crushing fate, no stony destiny,
O Lamb that hast been slain, we find in Thee!
The many waves of thought, the mighty tides,
The ground-swell that rolls up from other lands,
From far-off worlds, from dim, eternal shores,
Whose echo dashes on life's wave-worn strands—
This vague, dark tumult of the inner sea
Grows calm, grows bright, O risen Lord, in Thee!
Thy pierced hand guides the mysterious wheels;
Thy thorn-crowned brow now wears the crown of power;
And, when the dread enigma presseth sore,
Thy patient voice saith, "Watch with me one hour."
As sinks the moaning river in the sea
In silver peace, so sinks my soul in Thee.
—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

ARE WOMEN CREDULOUS?

Letter from a reader:
"I am twenty-two years old and have nearly always suffered so with my periods that I have been compelled to remain in bed. There was no particular difficulty when the function first established itself, but began to suffer more and more after a year. We have tried all sorts of remedies, but nothing seems to produce any permanent results. The family doctor tells me that it is perfectly natural for a girl to suffer so, but I know better, for my cousin, a year older, has never had any trouble whatever. I remember, too, when we were younger her mother never attempted to keep her quiet, but let her do as she pleased during the periods, while my mother always made me take all sorts of precautions to avoid overexertion or taking cold. My cousin was a great tomboy and I have known her to go in bathing in quite cold water at her periods, without any apparent effect. Why is it that one girl must be almost an invalid and another have no trouble at all from menstruation? It seems to me that doctors don't understand women very well."

And right the young woman is. Doctors don't.

"Tomboy" girls, be it hereby made known, are far less susceptible to menstrual and other difficulties of the sex than the delicate dignified, prim, precociously dignified girls.

The young woman's cousin was blessed with a mother who possessed a grain of good sense. The cousin was not given to understand that because she belonged to the credulous, the weak, the "delicately organized" sex she must conduct herself as a sort of potent invalid. Her mother, evidently, didn't think of the girl's sex as a morbid stain.

There is no reason whatever why any sensible girl should be in bed at any time should she swim at the time of her, as Sairey would call it, "tickness." When such healthful exercise as swimming is passed up for such a reason, the chances are that the girl will suffer more or less because of her credulity, her weakness, her sex.

The popular notion that women are naturally or inherently weak is utterly false. The chances are that the facts. Women are equally as strong as men of the same height and age, physically. Mentally there is room for doubt. Women's credulity is certainly greater than man's. Physical man is something immense.

A prime physical factor of painful functional troubles in young women is the direct bit. Here, again, woman's credulity, and the absurd notion that she is weak and needs a brace or something, become detrimental to her health and physical perfection.

And right the young woman is. Doctors don't.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE WHEN ROCK CRASHES INTO COACH

Disgruntled News Peddler Huris Heavy Missile Into Nickel Plate Train.

GIVEN 30 DAYS IN JAIL

A passenger on a Nickel Plate passenger train, yesterday morning had a narrow escape from serious injury, when a rock which Oscar Williams, disgruntled news and fruit peddler, hurled at Conductor Joseph F. Long, crashed through the window of the train and whizzed past the passenger's head, missing him by but a fraction of an inch. The heavy missile which weighed no less than two pounds, struck the woodwork on the opposite side of the car, where it made a dent in the hard surface nearly half an inch deep. It then rebounded and struck the big rock and knee, inflicting a painful though not serious laceration.

When the train began to move from the station at Fort Wayne, Conductor Long began collecting fares, when Williams came along with his tray of fruit and newspapers and attempted to push past the conductor, who called his attention to the rule that he could not peddle his wares, while the fares were being collected. Williams then became very insolent and his abuse finally became so severe that Conductor Long was forced to forcibly put him off the train, when it stopped at the junction at the western limits of the city. As the train began to pull out, the infuriated peddler thrust his big rock and hurled it through the car window at Long.

Williams was later arrested by Nickel Plate Detective Jackson and Gallentine, and was arraigned in the city court this morning on a charge of attacking a public conveyance. Judge Mungovan after hearing the evidence, fined Williams $10 and costs, and sentenced him to thirty days in jail.

THE OPEN SEASON FOR PROPAGANDISTS IS ON

Congress Besieged by Army of Agents Seeking to Interest Law-makers.

CROWD GROWS WEEKLY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—This is the open season for propagandists.

Never before within the recollection of the oldest inhabitants of the national capital were so many propagandists trying to interest congress.

Most conspicuous in this new line of activity are the representatives of the dependent peoples interested in the treaty of peace and the smaller nations which are not entirely satisfied with the treaty. The senate's consideration of the treaty has brought here authorized propagandists representing the Greeks, the Egyptians, the Ukrainians, the Koreans and many other peoples. Most of these agencies are operating through paid writers who are employed to supply information to the senate and the newspapers. Even some of the larger nations, such as China and Japan, have established agencies apart from their embassies for the dissemination of information in regard to questions that arise during the consideration of the treaty.

The company of governmental propagandists from all parts of the world is being enlarged week by week. The inclination of the senate committee on foreign relations to hear most anybody that asks for a hearing has served to encourage the dissatisfied people everywhere (and most everybody seems to be dissatisfied at the present time) to submit their grievances to the committee. A member of this committee said today the committee is beginning to realize it will have to call a halt unless it proposes to devote the next three months to listening to tales of woe from every quarter of the globe. The dependent peoples who have sent their representatives here have as a rule employed legal counsel in this country and are taking every step possible to get their grievances before the American people. Many of the foreigners who have come in during recent weeks have come direct from Paris, where they spent many months while the peace treaty was being put together.

The representatives of the nationalities interested in the treaty, however, form only a small part of the propagandists' colony. The steps that are being taken by congress to formulate a permanent railroad policy for the country have naturally brought here a large number of men who are directly interested in the proposed legislation or who are employed by persons who are interested in this or that. The whole purpose of the activity that is being carried on in connection with the preparation of railroad legislation is to acquaint congress with facts that ought to help in solving the railroad problem.

The association of railway executives which has its headquarters at 61 Broadway, New York City, has opened an office here and is making circulating reports to the members before the house committee on interests and foreign commerce for the use of the public. The labor organizations, to which employees of the railroads belong, also have opened headquarters for the purpose of keeping the public informed as to their views on the so-called railroad problem. It is in the main, a new kind of lobbying. At present there is no thought of an attempt in any quarter to exert any undue influence on the legislative body. The bureaus that have been established are really devoting themselves to the dissemination of information.

Next to the men who are interested in railroad legislation the packers are showing most activity. They have organized what they call "the institute of American meat packers" and have established headquarters in one of the large office buildings here and are employing a large force of experts. The publicity feature of their propaganda is in charge of George M. Cook, a highly efficient newspaper man who was formerly connected with one of the largest press associations, bringing the example of the railroad executives, they are reporting the hearings on the bill which proposes to license the packing industry and put into effect other federal regulations. The so-called "big five" packers, with their lawyers are spending most of their time here. They make no effort to conceal the fact that the object of their stay is to defeat the proposed federal legislation affecting them, if it can be done, but they are working in the open; they are putting out daily thousands of words of printed matter, all of which is put into the hands of senators and representatives and sent broadcast over the country for the purpose of showing that there is no necessity for any such legislation as congress is proposing.

The flying bicycle ready for a flight. With flying becoming more popular daily, scientists and inventors are turning their attention to many different kinds of devices which they hope will fly successfully. The bicycle shown was invented in France recently and attained a height of 250 feet from the ground in a trial flight.

For the first time the farmers of the country are represented in the propaganda activity here. They have their national organizations, well equipped, and evidently well supplied with money, for they are doing an effective job of holding up their end of the propaganda work that is going on here. The farmers' organization takes to itself the credit of the repeal of the daylight saving law, in spite of the President's veto. Like the other propagandists' organizations that have opened headquarters here, it is relying on the pen, or to be more accurate, the typewriter, rather than on the old method of seeking out senators and representatives personally and trying to persuade them to do this or that. It may be said for all the propagandists that have come upon the scene, that their work is educational in character. It is true, of course, that each bureau is endeavoring to serve a particular interest, but it is endeavoring to convince through the presentation of facts and legitimate arguments. Since every side of every important controversy is represented, it seems unlikely that any interest will suffer for lack of presentation.

A few of the propaganda activities are not newcomers. For instance, the anti-saloon league, which is very busy just now protecting what it has gained in the way of prohibition legislation, has been in the business here for a good many years, and so has the organization which speaks for the brewers and distillers. Likewise labor organizations and particularly the American Federation of Labor, have maintained propaganda headquarters here for a long time. It is the newcomers on the scene that are interesting congress.

Why Firestone is Giving Extra Value in Tires

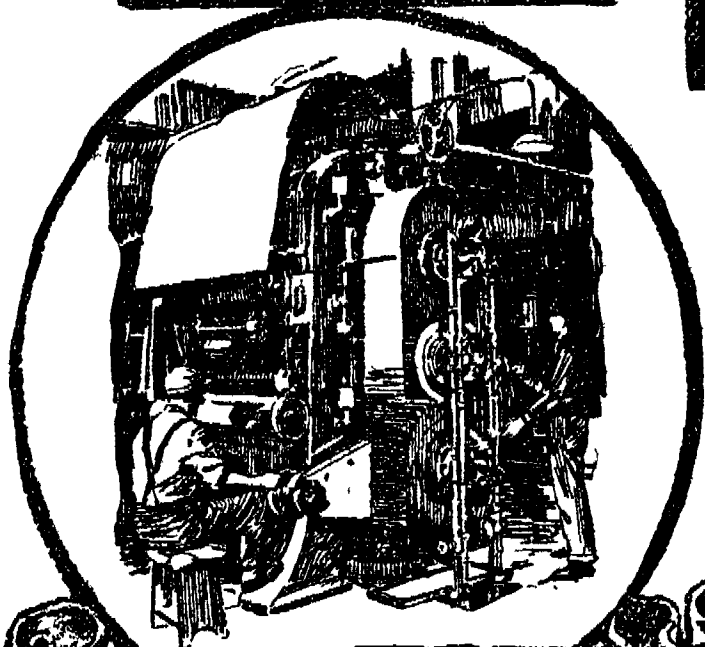

SINGAPORE HEADQUARTERS—Firestone saves car owners $1,000,000 a year by having an organization in Singapore getting first choice of rubber at low cost and shipping direct.

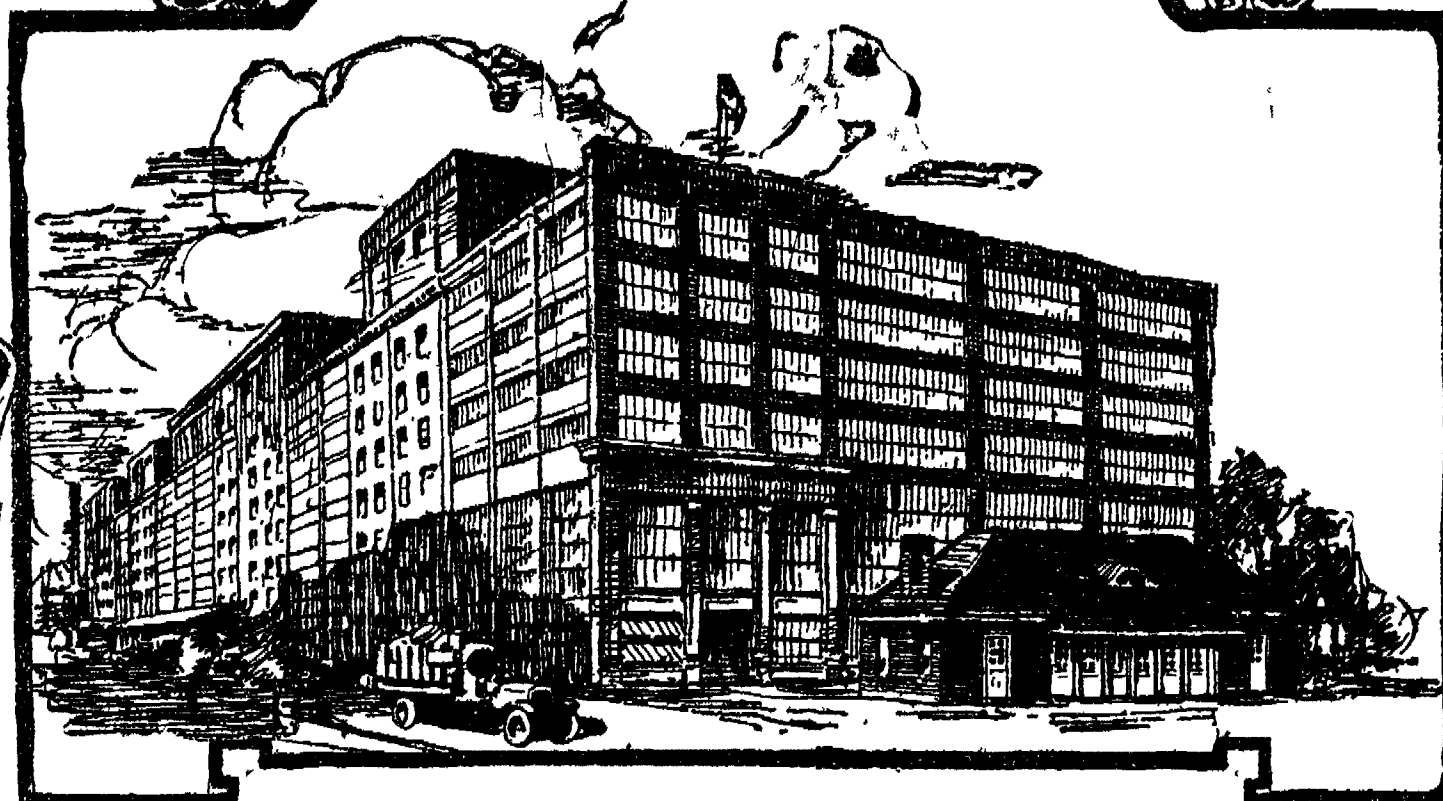

PLANT No. 1—Capacity 20,000 tires a day—concentrated on large tires, auto and truck tires. Manufacturers study it, technical colleges use it, as an example of efficiency in manufacture and organization.

THE FIRESTONE RIM PLANT—Devoted exclusively to Firestone Rims. Vast as is its present capacity it is inadequate to supply the demand for Firestone Rims. Ground is broken for a steel plant double this capacity.

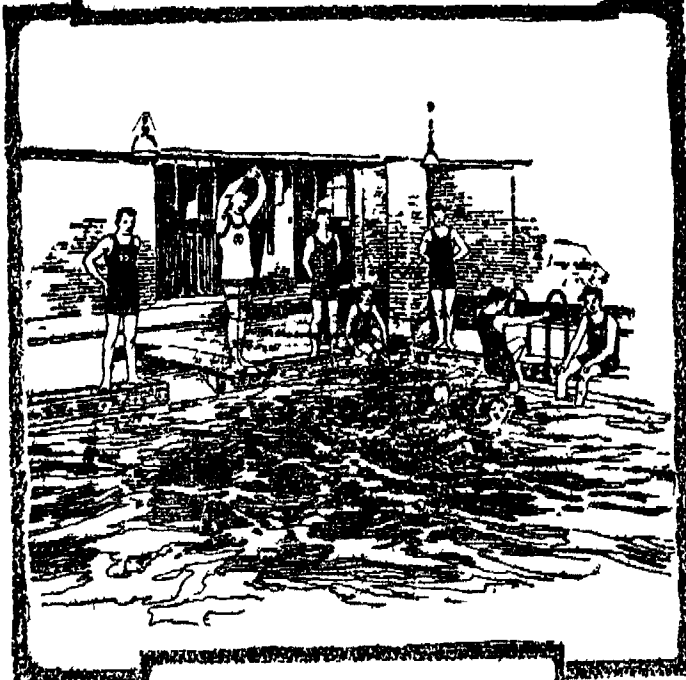

90% OF FIRESTONE WORKERS ARE STOCKHOLDERS in the Company. They have a financial interest in every Firestone customer. Better tires mean more customers. You get the benefit of the best work possible.

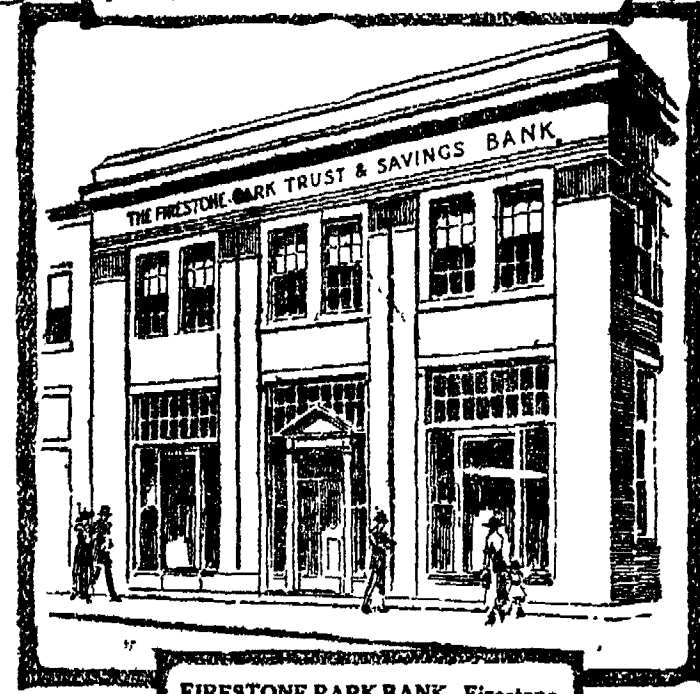

PLANT No. 2—Devoted exclusively to 3 1/4-inch tires—capacity 16,000 a day. This new plant with Plant No. 1 gives Firestone largest tire capacity in America. Builds the most nearly perfect 3 1/4-inch tire constructed and saves from 10% to 30% on every factory operation.

FIRESTONE PARK—A beautiful, practical home community. Firestone men own their own homes. They put more into their work because they are getting more out of it. You benefit in extra miles per dollar.

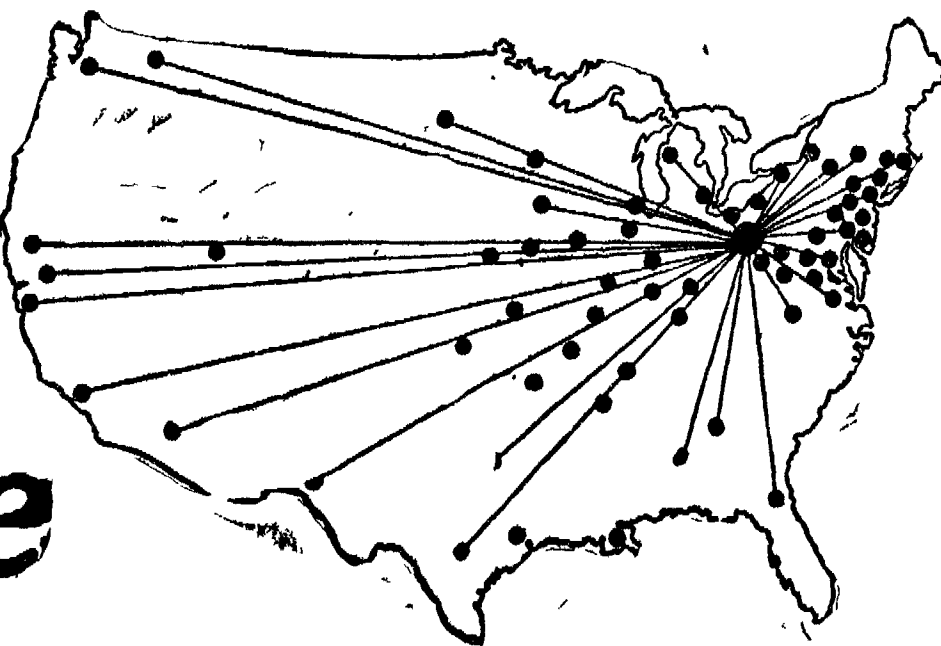

FIRESTONE CLUBHOUSE—Another step in the Firestone building of an organization that can do things better than others. Firestone advantages attract and hold the best men.

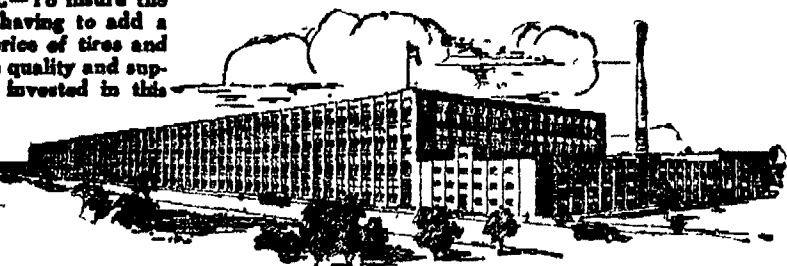

FIRESTONE PARK BANK—Firestone makes saving easy and alluring. And Firestone has established a Free Insurance Fund. Men with assured futures work better. You benefit in extra mileage.

BRANCH HOUSES in 63 leading cities serving 42,000 Firestone dealers, and wide distribution economically handled, is another reason for extra value in Firestone Tires.

FABRIC MILL—To insure the best without having to add a premium to price of tire and to get uniform quality and supply, Firestone invested in this mill. You benefit in long mileage tires at low price.

FIRST OF GREAT MOTOR TRANSPORT SCHOOLS OPEN
Baltimore Has Initial School for Training Transport Corps Men.

GRAVED GOOD MEAL BUT FOOD CAUSED STOMACH DISTRESS

Michigan Resident Who Regains Health Endorses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

"Only those who have suffered the agony of indigestion," says R. O. P. Trevelyan, of No. 305 Eleventh street, Bay City, Mich., "can understand the readiness with which I accepted the remedy that not only cured my stomach trouble but built up my entire body."
"A stage of sickness left me in a very weak condition. My stomach was in such bad shape that no matter how carefully I selected my food I was sure to suffer. This was especially the case at night and many times after eating the food I craved, I tossed sleeplessly about in bed."
"After two or three preparations I decided to help me I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began the treatment. There was soon a noticeable improvement in my condition and in a few weeks I was able to eat my appetite for good food without the worry of sleeplessness and pain. It wasn't a great while before I regained my strength and energy and I feel as well as ever now. I sleep well and my stomach no longer causes distress."
"Your own druggist can supply you with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or you can order direct from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., enclosing fifty cents for one box or $5.00 for six boxes. Write today for the free booklet, 'What to Eat and How to Eat.'" be established by the motor transport corps. This school is located at Camp Holabird, Baltimore, Md.

The opening of this school is regarded as an event of great significance because of the several features new to army schools and original in vocational training that differentiate this from all other schools in or out of the army. In the use of civilian instructors and the giving of the entire time of the enlisted students to school work alone, it marks a new attitude toward education and training on the part of the army. Educationally the establishment of this school is significant as exemplifying largely the new point of view which holds that the army should be a great teaching force while to the industries of the nation and especially to the automotive industry, it brings the promise of a steady supply of men trained systematically and thoroughly in the fundamental trades and fitted to do the highest type of machine and mechanical work.
A strong staff of instructors, made up of civilian and office experts, most of them graduates of well known technical schools, has been secured, chief among these being Maj. A. A. Case, formerly professor of applied science at Ohio State university, and Prof. Dean A. Faes, late in charge of the gas engine department of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. An official announcement explaining the scheme of education says:
"Under the plan as formulated for these schools the 400 men composing the entering class will be put through a preliminary course of four weeks, during which they will be watched closely, given the psychological test and the trade test and receive instructions in the fundamentals of military life. At the completion of this course each man will be classified and upon that classification will depend his future work in the school."
"Upon the completion of the preliminary course the student will enter upon the real serious business of the school. This has been broken out in four courses covering all branches of automotive work, from elementary to highest. Each man's progress and ultimate goal will be determined by his own ability, but the system aims at assuring each man just as much instruction as it is profitable for him to receive."
"The four courses are known as: First, school of chauffeurs; second, school of auto-mechanics; third, school of inspector and foreman; fourth, school of automotive engineer. The first course is designed to produce chauffeurs who will know how to safeguard a vehicle by proper inspections and to make the repairs and adjustments that a driver should make. They will be drilled on the rules of the road and driving in convoy formation and will be fitted to become drivers of fine private cars or truckmasters for commercial concerns using large numbers of trucks."
"The auto mechanics' course is made up of ten parallel courses of instruction of sixteen weeks each. Each of these is founded upon some fundamental trade and is intended to prepare a man to enter a given line of work in commercial life. The courses are for mechanics, auto-mechanics, ignition and carburetion specialists, battery repairers, welders, tire repair and wheelwrights, sheet metal and spring-makers, black metal and radiator workers, wood workers, spare parts men and salvage experts."
"The automobile mechanic of today is usually an ingenious 'hand' man, who has grown up in a small jobbing shop without receiving any fundamental training. The aim of these courses is to give that fundamental training and no man will be considered an expert or fall around man who has not had at least two of the first three of the courses listed. In this manner expert auto mechanics will be produced who, at once upon re-entering civil life, will command the high wages now being paid to men of the greatest skill."
"The course for foremen and inspectors will be for those men who stand head and shoulders above the others in the work of the preceding courses and who in addition have the quality of human nature which enables them to control the work of others."
"The school work will alternate with periods of production work in the shops, service parks, units or with operating units in the field. This production work will be under production conditions as in any well-regulated factory or truck operating concern, with the difference that the men will be supervised and graded with reference to their status in the further school work. Instructions will be given by lecture and demonstration in buildings equipped especially for the school work and set apart from the shops. These will usually have a capacity of 1,500 students each year."
"The production periods will be spent in the shops, which are huge cement, steel and glass structures, covering about five acres and admittedly the best of their kind in existence. The machinery and tool equipment is of the finest obtainable. No educational or manufacturing institution in the world can possibly compete with the motor transport corps in point of plant and equipment in the teaching of automotive mechanics."

When a Girl Marries

CHAPTER CXXIV.

On the day when my ring disappeared, Dr. Kellogg pronounced my ankle well enough to come out of the bandage of adhesive plaster which had been strapping it ever since the accident. I was, however, still in high-heeled boots which he had prepared for me, and, lacing my ankle tightly into these, he ordered me to forsake all thoughts of invalidism and to trot about as usual.

I was tempted to rush right down to Haldane's, call for Daisy and take her out to lunch, but I managed to restrain myself. That would be the sort of thing Neal calls "rough work." I must wait until before starting my campaign, otherwise it would be too obvious.

Wanting a companion for my walk, I called Virginia on the telephone and asked her to go around with me. This was my first opportunity to speak to Virginia since the evening Jim had broken the news to her that the old Harrison place now stood in her name. At the first word of Virginia's reply I noticed the constraint in her voice.

"How fortunate that your ankle's quite well again, Anne. Don't overdo the walking, though. I'm not very keen for these new boots about my exersizing sprains and torn ligaments."

"But will you come with me?" I persisted.

"I'm so sorry, Anne," replied Virginia smoothly, evading me. "But I'm preparing to go to the mountains for a week or so. A little change does all of us worlds of good, you know. And I've a lot of shopping, so I can't make it."

"We might take a taxi," I persisted.

"Of course, I can't run the little car now and we couldn't talk with some one else in the driver's seat and one of us clattered to the rumble. But in a taxi we could visit between shops."

I smiled to myself at my own change of heart where Virginia was concerned. Time was when I'd have been too thoroughly cowed by her first refusal to make any effort to force myself upon her. But now, Virginia never daunted me. Under her coldness and pride I feel unhappiness and unfulfilled longings. And I'm afraid of sad people—they may be reaching out for the very thing I have to give.

So even when Virginia would have none of me, I didn't feel snubbed and hurt, but sorry that she was all snarled up in her bitterness and misunderstanding.

"Really, dear, I must be rushing," she exclaimed. "I have things to buy for Phoebe and myself—tickets to get reservations to telegraph for, so do forgive me if I'm abrupt and say good-bye."

I echoed the good-bye and turned from the phone to find Amy at my elbow.

"Dar's a maid here for you to interview, ma'am," she said in her quaint jargon. "She says Miss Cosby she sent her in response to Miss Harrison what 'phone and ask her to portages, and the travelers sleep in the canoe at night and cook their own meals."

LESON WILL BE KEPT AS POSTMASTER GENERAL

ident Decides to Keep Him Despite Complaints of Democrats.

NGE IN SYSTEM MADE

ous Ludlow, Special Correspondent of the News at Washington, Sept. 9.—Albert rleson will continue to serve as aster general. This is the de- of President Wilson, after gi- consideration to requests of cratic politicians, including ers of the democratic national ittee, who have been trying to rleson and who bombarded resident with demands that he aster general be ousted from fight within the democratic against Burleson took definite along in May when the president in Paris. It resulted in several ers of the national committee, ing Chairman Cummings, mak- zonal representation to the ment to the effect that the post- general's administrative con- was injuring the party. His re- from office was demanded by ers of the committee as the cure for the situation.

o specific allegations were made, first was that Burleson had af- organized labor as a result s failure to get along with the employees of the postal de- ment and, secondly, that he had ved the democrats of the patron- which they were entitled under d civil service regulations which gave the republicans almost an equal chance with the democrats. The president on his return from Paris took up the charges and after he had gone through the representa- tions made by the members of the democratic national organization he listened to Postmaster General Burleson's defense. Burleson insisted that he had not given organized labor any cause for offense and he submitted statistics which showed that 62 per cent of the postmasters appointed under the new regulations are democ- rats. After hearing Burleson the president has decided not to ask him to quit office.

A new rule governing the appoint- ment of postmasters is to be followed, however. Hereafter the postmaster general will be privileged to appoint from the first four on any eligible list. This will afford the adminis- tration an opportunity to choose a democrat if it is deemed wise to do so. It is assumed that there would be at least one democrat among the first four on any eligible list.

Under the rule that has been fol- lowed in appointing presidential postmasters the first person on the list was appointed. At least that was the rule when the civil service com- mission laid down and the postmas- ter general, it is asserted, generally respected it.

Under the new civil service rule that has been agreed on it is safe to assume that practically all the presi- dential postmasterships from this time on will go to democrats.

PESKY BED BUGS

A MILLION BEDBUGS. Just think, a 35c package of the new golden chemi- cal P. D. Q. CUT THIS OUT. This new chemical can be had at any first-class drug store. A 35 cent package makes a quart of P. D. Q., and will go farther than a Bobby could get them when he came home and finish the summer house before it got dark. Before he left he warned Bobby's mother not to let him get hold of a certain something as he might do a lot of damage with it and the dots will show you what it was.

THE WISHING PLANE

By WILLIS WINTER

sk had always thought that Main hill, back in Make Believe land, was a wonderful place for flying in winter time, but when Main Brave told him that some of the best flying places near where they were staying in Switzerland were a few miles long the little fellow decided that the hill at home was a one. For it ran only two city blocks.

sk had never seen the kinds of things they used in Switzerland. Captain Brave showed him one standing in the corner of Widow Aar's living room. The captain called it a "toboggan," and what he called it from now on instead of being a long, flat, low runners several inches high, it was a wide board that rested flat on the snow. The front end was a hook so that it would slide on the rough places. Little ridges on the bottom helped make it run straight. Captain Brave said. Along the top of the board were rails and the little fellow was to lean against them while going down hill. During the winter months the long, straight roads are covered with a coating of ice and snow," said Main Brave. "The folks with toboggans walk up the roads in sleds until they are as high as can go with their toboggans. They climb onto the toboggans and the toboggans slide down the road almost level. Then the road through a patch of woods where the air is much colder, because the trees hold the wind back. Then there will be another hill which will land them out in the open again. The whole trip will take them from the mountain top to the bottom of the mountain in a few hours. It probably took them a few hours to reach the top of the hill.

other folks would be thrown from their toboggans and perhaps hurt if they attempted to race. "Water is poured on these hills the night before the races are to be held. This water freezes and makes the hill as smooth as glass. The racers fly down the road at a really-true mile-a-minute gait. The man or woman who makes the trip in the shortest time wins the race. "One of the coasting places is known all over the world. This is called the Cresta run. It is at St. Moritz. Many sharp turns in it make it a dangerous course for any but the greatest tobogganers. Racers have gone from the top to the bottom of the hill in less than a minute. Some of the time they were almost flying—going over sixty miles an hour. That's as fast as the fastest locomotives can pull a train." There isn't room for more today, so I guess you'll have to wait until tomorrow to hear about the sking. (Copyright, 1919.)

UNABLE TO WORK FOR MONTH AT A TIME

Green Spent $500 For Medicines That Did Him No Good

have spent over five hundred dollars for medicine during the past years, and Tanlac is the only medicine that has done me any good at all. I had suffered so long from stomach trouble without getting any relief, that I was finally that an operation was the only thing left. I had reached the point where I would have terrible cramps every meal. I would often lose my breath on account of the gas forming so bad, and the misery was such that I never could get down to anybody except myself. I finally got to where I could not retain anything I ate—not a glass of milk. I never could get to sleep. In fact, there were many nights I just had to walk the floor all night long and not sleep a wink. I was so nervous at times that I could not sit down. I finally got to where I could not get about, and would be laid up for a month at a time.

As I have already said, I had been to a lot of doctors, but nothing was doing me any good. I was finally told to try Tanlac, and I am now a sound, man again without having to go to the knife. You may believe it or not, but it's the truth. I never it. I haven't had a pain of any kind since I finished my first bottle of Tanlac, and I can sit down now and eat a big, square meal and it causes me the least bit of trouble afterwards. I have gained pounds already and am back at work and never lose a minute's rest. A hard day's work doesn't me, either, for I just hustle and wash up and eat as heartily as anybody, and go to bed stretch out and sleep like a baby all night long. Those aches and smothering spells have me, too, and in fact, I am in a condition in every way, and I'll be world that Tanlac is responsible for it all.

Tanlac is sold in Fort Wayne by Bros. & Co., in Woodburn by Drug Co., in Harlan by Redder, and in Grabbill by Ill Drug Store.

TAKE PEPSINCO

Don't burn good fuel in a poor stove

It's a useless waste of good fuel and a needless extravagance to try to burn it in a poor stove. It is absolutely wrong to expect good food to supply energy, vitality, health and happiness if your stomach won't absorb and assimilate it. If you cannot eat with enjoyment, if your food does you no good, if food distresses rather than benefits, then you have indigestion or dyspepsia. The best remedy to use is PEPSINCO.

Ask your druggist—he sells and recommends Pepsinco.

Football Activity Starts at Many Gridiron Camps

COLLEGES MARSHALL THEIR 1919 GRID BANDS

This Week Marks the Actual Opening of Football Camps in Middle West.

MUCH INTEREST IN GAME

The chase is on! This week marks the actual opening of every college and university football camp in the United States. In some places practice has already been in full swing. For the most part, Indiana eleven activity on the grid field begins today.

With men from 1918, 1917, 1918 and the new crop of 1919 on hand to jump into practice, the athletic authorities everywhere are finding themselves swamped and they are frantically sending out S O S rush orders for more molesters.

The old platoon and the new have been brought from cover. The back field men are practicing signals a little, and tearing up and down the field while the coach of his assistant barks orders at them. The linemen are marshaling and plunging at each other. Off to the side there are a chosen few hunting and drop-kicking and perfecting a forward pass, forgotten for the time being.

The undergraduates, with their books tucked carefully under their arms stand on the side lines and sit things up. Old grads come back and eagerly shake the hands of the pros and the coach. Coeds linger in the background but now and then one more enthusiastic than the rest ventures forth. Sweaters, college pipes, sport caps, midday blouses, smart chummy roadsters. The youthful rabble of the neighborhood looking on enviously. The picture is the same, no matter on what level-covered campus it is thrown.

"The team ought to be pretty good this year," isn't that what they always say? "I hear Chicago is having tough luck." The same old stuff.

"The team has not seemed to have hit football at all. It has saved up a supply of big husky Yankee youths who are now all back at school at once, and all anxious to hit the line hard."

"There never has been such a general football prosperity as there is right now. The chances are that, unless some great force like a war holds back the supply of men for a year or so, and then pours them forth, the prospects never will be as good."

"We have wonderful chances!" enthused one lad. "Look at all the men coming back and look at those who are coming in!"

"Yes, but the other fellows as having the same luck," mourned the thoughtful one.

BOWLING CLUB OFFICERS

The Knights of Columbus are making preparations for the biggest bowling season in the history of the organization. The league will be composed of ten teams which will be known by the following names: San Salvadors, Pintas, Ninas, Santa Marias, Christophers, La Rabidas, Casays, Marquettes, Navigators and Anchors. The league will bowl every Friday night.

WILL GEORGIA TECH LET JOE GUYON GO AND TRY TO BEAT PITT WITHOUT HIM?

Joe Guyon.

especially the college adherents.

Every grid fan knows Joe Guyon, the Indian star around whom Georgia Tech's wonderful football machine has been built for the last couple of seasons. Georgia Tech's greatest—and practically their only feared rival in these seasons has been the University of Pittsburgh, not a member of the big conference in the south. Last year Pittsburgh refused to enter the contest with Georgia Tech, claiming that he had played professional football and therefore was ineligible.

Georgia Tech realizes that the same protest will be registered this fall when the Pitt game arrives if Guyon is a member of the team.

Now here is the point. It is reported that Guyon has been offered a fat sum to play with the Canton, O., professional team this fall and has told his college of the offer. Georgia Tech officials must decide between two courses.

They can persuade Guyon to play with his college team and thereby keep the great machine devalued last year intact for all the "Big Seven" conference games in the south—thereby undoubtedly copping the conference title without any trouble.

Or they can disrupt their present machine and take a chance on building up a new one by the time the Pitt game rolls around—after the conference schedule is completed. This would mean sacrificing their conference games while the chance of making a clean sweep in their conference games while tuning up a machine to wallop Pitt.

FIRST PRACTICE SUNDAY

Some of the best players in the country have been signed by Ren Kraft, captain of the World War Veterans football team. The entire eleven will be made up of stars. While it is impossible to give the complete line-up at this time it is practically completed with a number of good men in reserve.

Kraft, announcing that he has signed Martens and Howe, both former Michigan players. Martens plays end and Howe guard. Wilson, the famous Notre Dame center, also has been signed. A contract has been forwarded to Jack Edey, famous Princeton quarterback.

The members of the committee on the sale of tickets are greatly gratified at the interest being manifested by the football fans of the city. More than one hundred season tickets have already been disposed of even though no strenuous effort has been made to sell them. The World War Veterans have gone to the aid there are a chosen few hunting and drop-kicking and perfecting a forward pass, forgotten for the time being.

Several of the players already signed will practice next Sunday in Chicago.

The SPORTLIGHT by Grantland Rice

The West is beginning to rub it in of late. The East, predominant for so long, is now beginning to understand about how a lead-pipe feels when wielded by a strong young man taking a full swing.

The West has always drawn the edge in the heavyweight division with something of an even break in base ball. Now it has begun to gather in all the hip-hip and the hoarse huzzas attached to both tennis and golf.

Out of the West There are just a few details you may not have considered in this connection. I'll take up first the matter of turf tennis.

From 1881 to 1911 the East had this ancient game in its brawny grip. It was around this date that California horned into the tennis zone and since that development took place the shock has been terrific.

Out of the last seven American championships decided upon turf courts, no less than five have gone to various Californians. McLoughlin has two, Johnston two and Murray one. Richard Norris Williams interposed on two occasions, beating McLoughlin and Johnston in turn to prevent a seven-year sweep.

But five victories in seven starts shows a decided preponderance, for where the East has offered but one man who could rise to the crest, the West has offered three, counting Lindley Murray, whose game was developed under California skies.

As the West has also produced the last three golf champions, the margin seems complete. Dave Herron from Pittsburgh might be listed on neutral soil, although Pittsburgh has been classed, in a golfing and base ball way, as western territory.

The New Wonder In the meanwhile William Johnston has proved his greatness, not only for this season, but for some time to come.

This young star was unknown outside of his own circle in 1914. You never heard his name mentioned when the 1914 Davis Cup matches were under way.

Yet a year later he was national champion. His record has been miraculous. Out of the last three championships he has entered he has won twice, and has been runner-up on the other occasion.

To reach the top in 1919 he had to beat the game and slashing Patterson, winner of the English championship, and then down the brilliant Tilden, who had taken six out of seven sets from Norman Brookes and Norris Williams.

Johnston has something more than a collection of wonderful tennis strokes. He has rare judgment, unusual coolness under fire, and the keen, aggressive match play temperament that is at its best against a rugged test.

It may be that Maurice McLoughlin's once resplendent star has faded into the mists of complete. Dave Herron from Pittsburgh might be listed on neutral soil, although Pittsburgh has been classed, in a golfing and base ball way, as western territory.

Another Year It isn't that the East has run out of star talent. With Francis Ouimet in golf and with Williams and Tilden in tennis, to say nothing of Vincent Richards in another year, there is still abounding class on hand to start a new offensive.

While the West holds Evans, Bob Gardner, William Johnston and a number of others who carry abounding class no mere offensive will break through. It will take a drive in successive waves.

Throwing the 16-Pound Bouquet Those in charge of the destinies of turf tennis—which means the official and directing staff of the U. S. L. T. A.—deserve unlimited praise for the genius they have shown in helping to make tennis a national sport—a sport that might have been hot-housed to death but one that has now been lifted to the place it deserves as one of the great games of the world.

Here is a game that stands as one of the few international sports—the game of many nations. Through the treatment it has drawn from tennis officials it is today also a game for many people—a game for the public and not the few.

While 1919 was a wonderful year for this sport, there is every indication now that 1920 will march to even greater heights and still further expand the growing interest.

The main argument in the case of J. Beckett vs. J. Dempsey is not as to what chance Beckett would have to win—but whether he can last as long as three rounds.

DECISION NEXT TUESDAY

In the Pitcher Mays Injunction Case.

(By United Press.) NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Decision in the Mays injunction case will be handed down next Tuesday by Supreme Court Justice Wagner. Arguments were closed yesterday afternoon by attorneys for Ban Johnson, American league president and the club owners.

Johnson maintained he acted within his constitutional power in suspending Mays and that he acted for the welfare of baseball. He charged also that Mays deserted the Red Sox, not because he had been hit by a thrown ball, but because he wanted a slice of the world's series coin and knew that Boston was out of the race.

Physicians attending the ball player are unable to explain Murphy's injury. Murphy was knocked down but arose shortly and he said he did not feel hurt. He was attended by a physician in the club house and it was not discovered until late Monday that his skull was fractured.

Murphy was purchased recently by the New York Americans along with Pitchers Alex Ferguson and Roy Sanders who are to report there next spring.

Harry McHenry, of Montpelier, Ind., a great favorite in Fort Wayne, broke his left arm in his fight here last night with Joe Succo. McHenry was putting it all over Succo when in the fourth he started a left hook for his opponent's body. Succo blocked and McHenry staggered back and fell to the floor in great pain. McHenry was to have fought W. English of Toledo, but the boxing commission refused to pass the Toledo boy.

FOUR RACES ARE SCHEDULED

On Today's Grand Circuit Program.

(By Associated Press.)
SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 9.—"Pop" Geers, veteran driver of the Grand Circuit, and "Pat" Cherrier, Canadian driver, will be out of the harness racing game for the season as the result of accidents yesterday. Geers was thrown when he fell in the fifth race and the driver suffered a fractured shoulder bone. Cherrier sustained a fractured leg while driving Amardale in the third race, the horse throwing him at the half mile turn.

Races are on today's program with the $10,000 empire state trot as the feature event. Other races are the 2 13 pace, the 2 18 trot and the 2 16 trot.

The Hartford Meeting

The Grand Circuit meeting at Hartford opened Labor day with a heavy track and threatening weather. The Connecticut Fair association however, succeeded in carrying out the afternoon program and at the same time gave Walter Cox an opportunity to show that McGregor the Great, with which he won the Hartford purse in 2:07½ from Echo Direct, is one of the cleverest mud larks that has been seen on the mile tracks in several years. Cox also paraded Lu Franchette and Mabel Trask in a special, the former winning in 2:05½ the last half of each heat being in 1:01 and a fraction. It looks now as though Mabel Trask has recovered her old form and has an even chance to not only reduce her record but also defeat her formidable racing companion in the special which will be arranged for them one being over the half-mile track at Allentown, Pa., the week of September 22.

As rain kept the horses idle on Tuesday and Wednesday, the Connecticut Fair association massed its program so that five races were contested on each of the last two days of the meeting, the purses amounting to $21,000 on Thursday. During that afternoon, the patrons of the fair saw the most brilliant series of contests ever staged at Hartford. Geers won the two-year-old trot with Dudette after three heat and head finishes with Natalie the Great and Mr. Dudley, one of the heats going to the Peter the Great filly.

Murphy proved the leader by winning the Whirlwind purse with the Connecticut bred gelding Direct C. Burnett from Edward P. and Frank Dewey and the thirty-fourth renewal of the $10,000

CAN GLEASON DEPEND UPON THESE MEN IN BIG SERIES?

By N. E. BROWN.

While Kid Gleason will depend upon Eddie Cicotte and Williams to carry his club through to victory in the world series, it is improbable that he can get through the battles without having to inject another hurler, or two, into the games. Kerr and Faber are the only other hurlers on which Gleason would dare take a chance in the important contests. What White Sox—and Red Sox—are trying to do out is whether these two can hold up their end of the pitching when called upon. Faber is a great pitcher—when he is going good—but this season he has been an in and out. He is a winning hurler by barely a game or two. Kerr's record has been better, but he has broken into fewer games. Between them they have won about twenty games for the Kid and have lost fourteen or fifteen while doing so. Cicotte and Williams, between them, have won over forty-five contests, which shows the comparative amount of good the two have been in the regular campaign.

Gaby Deslys, at the left, has evidently taken to the popular one-piece bathing suit.

Here is the latest snapshot of Gaby Deslys, the famous French actress and beauty. It shows her enjoying the bathing season at Deauville, the fashionable French seaside resort nearest to Paris. Gaby is always startling the public and this one-piece suit she wears is the newest way she has of being a bit daring, for one-piece suits are not as common in Paris as they are on the beaches in our own country.

CENTRAL BUREAU FOR REGISTRATION PLANNED

A novel plan for the establishment of a central registration bureau of licenses for all motor vehicles or conveyances used for travel by air, land or water is embodied in a bill which has been introduced in congress by Representative Richard F. McKinstry of the Twenty-third New York district. Obviously one of the chief purposes of the bill is to facilitate the apprehension of motor car thieves.

The bill appropriates the sum of $100,000 to establish in the department of justice a bureau to be known as the "vehicle registration bureau." The other provisions of the bill are as follows:

"Said bureau shall secure from all licensing authorities of the several states the descriptions of all vehicles manufactured or sold by them and on request shall furnish proper information to all state governments as to license issued in any other state, together with descriptions of such vehicles.

"Said bureau shall receive and file reports from all police departments in any city, county, town or village of the United States and from any citizens regarding the theft of such vehicles, and on request shall furnish such information within a reasonable time to any such police department or to the licensing authorities of any foreign government regarding the theft of any motor vehicle, and may co-operate with such authorities and may furnish to such authorities information pertinent to such thefts."

It is provided in the bill that this legislation shall become effective on Jan 1 next.

VATICAN JOINS HANDS WITH LIBERAL MOVEMENT

Democratic Government Will Be Encouraged by the Catholic Church.

EDUCATE PROLETARIAT

(By United Press)
PARIS, Sept. 9.—Politically, the Vatican has joined hands with democracy and cast its lot with the new world wide liberal movement. It was brought out in a papal letter addressed to Cardinal Lucon and made public today in connection with participation of French Catholics in the coming parliamentary elections.

The Vatican will hereafter accept democracy as the only source of political power and will work to build up and permanently establish democratic government.

The Vatican program contains four definite planks for establishment of social peace.

They comprise:
Cooperation of all classes
Coalition of all classes against bolshevism.
Acceptance of democracy.
Education of the proletarian.

Immediately preceding the war, decline of monarchies and growth of democracies had left the Vatican with but the Hapsburg and Spanish monarchies for political allegiance. No diplomatic relations were maintained with Europe's democracies.

The fall of the Hapsburg dynasty left but one Catholic monarchy and the pope faced the necessity of recognizing democracy or of practically disappearing from the diplomatic world. Pope Benedict has frankly announced his choice of the former.

One almost certain result of this policy will be eventual resumption of political and diplomatic relations with France and Italy, thus gaining support in the two leading Catholic countries of Europe, a move which will make up for the loss of influence in Austria-Hungary.

The movement for reconciliation with political governments is already well advanced in Italy.

In his letter to Cardinal Lucon, the pope said, in part:

"The great outstanding fact in the world today is the ever strengthening current everywhere towards democracy. The proletarian classes, as they are called, having taken the preponderant part in the war, desire in every country to derive therefrom the maximum advantage."

"Unfortunately this is often pushed to excess. They would overturn the social order, which human nature renders necessary, to the detriment of everybody."

"The Catholic church has always loved those who suffer and has always taught that public powers established for the common good must work especially to improve conditions of those who suffer."

"That is why the Catholic clergy must not oppose the proletarian revendications, but must favor them provided they remain within the limits of honesty and justice."

INSPECT PROPOSED ROUTE

(Special to the News)
CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 9.—The sixteen counties in Ohio and eight in Indiana, which have reported, show a combined tonnage of 34,419,692 according to a report made public today by the Central Indiana Waterways association. These figures were turned over to Colonel Lansing H. Harkness, in charge of survey for the Miami and Erie canal, with its branch to Lake Michigan via Fort Wayne, Ind.

It was also announced by the association that Colonel Harkness, a member of the engineering corps, would shortly visit Fort Wayne and that he would make a trip over the two routes in Indiana.

Avery M. Groves, secretary of the association, today received word confirming the above message relating to tonnage. He said that these figures were much larger than the association had anticipated. Six Indiana counties did not report on tonnage, he said, and if these reports were in, the tonnage would reach

They were advancing toward us the bank which sloped downward toward the creek. Rule moved forward to meet them, and the little open space, and a moment later, from the hiding place among the motionless horses I became able to distinguish the slowly approaching figures. There were four in the party, apparently from the garb two men and two women. The second man might be the preacher, but if so, why should he be there? Why should his presence at this time be necessary? Unless the two main conspirators had special need for his services, I could conceive of no reason for his being in the action that night. Had I been deceived in their plans? Even as this fear overwhelmed me with consternation, I was compelled to notice how helplessly the first of the two women walked—as though her limbs refused to support her body, even though apparently upheld by the grip of the man beside her. I saw her, then, immediately grasped her other arm, and between the two, she was impelled forward. The saloonkeeper seemed unable to restrain his voice. "You must give her one of those doses," he growled, angrily. "Half of that wud a bin 'nough. Why, d— it, she kin hardly walk."

"O' course; he's waitin' thar with the horses. But I'm d— if I like this. She kin't know nothin' about it." "Maybe not now; but she'll come around all right, and she signed her name. So there ain't no hitch. She kin't be nothin' but a fool. Let's get on, we can't stand talkin' here; let's get them off, Jack; there isn't any time to waste. I suppose we'll have to wait for the saloonkeeper to get up. I held back, and permitted them to work, merely leading my own horse slightly to one side and keeping in his shadow. Gaskins brutally jerked the saloonkeeper by the collar, and forced her to mount one of the horses. She made some faint protest, the nature of which I failed to catch clearly, but the saloonkeeper, in reply and ordered her to keep quiet. Eloise uttered no word, emitted no sound, made no struggle, as the two other men lifted her bodily into the saddle, where Kirby held her, swaying helplessly against him while Rule strapped her securely into place. The entire proceedings were so brutally quiet that it required all my strength of will to restrain myself from action. My fingers closed upon the pistol in my pocket, and every impulse urged me to haul myself on the fellow, trusting everything to swift, bitter fight. I fairly trembled in eagerness to grapple with Kirby, hand to hand, and crush him helpless to resist.

"Thar," said the saloonkeeper, at last, testing his strap. "I reckon she can't fall off now, even if she don't get no worth a d—, Go ahead now, stout!" Both men stepped aside, and I led my horse forward. The movement brought me more into the open, and I was able to face with Kirby. By some trick of fate, at that very instant a star-glimp, piercing through the screen of leaves overhead, struck full into my eyes, and I was forced to my hat back and stared straight at me.

I could not see the mingled hate and horror in the man's eyes, but there could be no doubt of his recognition. The acknowledgement found expression in a startled exclamation. "By God—you here!" That was the first I gave him. With every pound of strength, with every ounce of dislike, I drove a clenched fist into that sunken face, and the fellow went down as though smitten by an ax. Even as he reeled, Rule leaped on me, cursing, failing to understand the cause, yet instinctively resisting the pretense of an enemy. His grip was at my throat, and, even as his fingers closed savagely, he struck me with one knee in the stomach, and drove me to the ground on my face. The next instant we were locked together so closely my blow became impossible; youth and agility waging fierce battle against brutal strength. I think I was his match, yet this I never knew—for all my thought centered in an effort to keep his hands from reaching any weapon. Whatever happened to me there must be no alarm, no noise sufficiently loud as to attract the attention of sentries on guard. This affair must be fought out, win or lose, and I was determined to win. I held him to me in a bear grip, but his overmastering strength beneath the strain until every muscle

"D— you—you sneakin' spy!" he hissed savagely, and his jaws snapped at me like mad beast. "Let go!—you—let go!"

Crazed by the pain, I svered to one side, and half felt my grip torn loose from about his arms, but the fellow struck me, and I went tumbling down, with the saloonkeeper falling flat on top of me, his pudgy fingers still clawing fiercely at my throat. I seemed as though consciousness had been crushed into death by those gripping hands, and the spark of life remained, for I heard the ex-preacher utter a velp, which ended in a moan. As a blow struck him, then Rule was jerked off me, and I sobbingly caught my breath, my throat free. Into my dazed mind there echoed the sound of a voice. "Is thet 'nough, Jack?"—then holler D— yer, yer try that again, an' I'll spill whut brains yer got all over this kinty. Yes it's Tim Kennedy talkin' an' he's kin to me, I know it. He'd war se are Yer ain't killed, be ye, Knox."

I managed to lift myself out of the dirt, still clutching for breath but with my mind clearing.

"No; I guess I'm all right, Tim," I said, panting out the words with an effort. "What's become of Kirby?" Don't let him get away. Now yer kin't let him go. He's a t'n' right whar yer dropped him. Holy smoke! sounded ter me like ye hit him with a pole-ax. I got his gun, an' thet's whut I'm makin' this skunk hold so blame still—oh, yes, I will, Jack Rule, I'm just achin' fer ter let ye have it."

"And the other fellow? He hit me."

"My ol' frien', Gaskins, thet's him all right." The deputy gave vent to a short, mirthless laugh. Oh, I tapped him with the butt, he'd ter do it. He'd got hold of a club somewhar an' was gon' ter give ye another. It will be a while, I reckon, fore he takes much interest. Whut'll I do with this red-headed gink?"

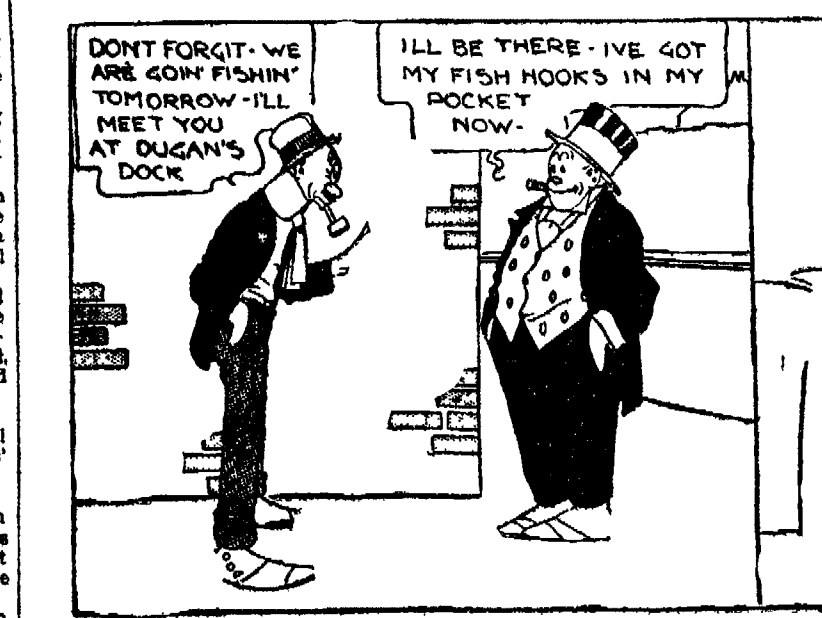

I succeeded in reaching my feet and stood there a moment, gaining what view I could through the darkness. The short struggle, desperate as it had been, was not a noisy one, and I could hear nothing about us to certain, we have got to get off this trail. If we can lead the horses up stream a way, and then circle back it would keep those fellows guessing for a while. Come here and see whut you think of the chance."

"Ye let me go ahead with the nigger gurl, an' then follow after us, leadin' Miss Beaucare's horse. By jannny crickets, 'aint' deep 'nough fer ter drown us enway, an' I ain't much afeerd of the dark. Thar's like-ly ter be sun place whar we kin get out up thar. Whar the h— are them horses?"

We succeeded in locating the animals by feeling and I waited on the edge of the bank, the two men wrapped about my arm, until I heard the others go splashing down into the water. Then I also groped my own way cautiously forward, the two horses trailing behind me, down the shingly shelving bank into the stream. Tim chose his course near to the opposite shore, and I followed his lead closely, guided largely by the splashing of Elsie's animal through the shallow water. Our movement was a very slow and cautious one, Kennedy halting frequently to assure himself that the passage ahead was safe. Fortunately the bottom was firm and the current not particularly strong, our greatest obstacle being the low-hanging branches which swept against us.

I think we must have waded thus to exceed a mile when we came to a fork in the stream and plumped into a tangle of uprooted trees, which ended our further progress. Between the two branches, after a little search, we discovered a gravelly beach, on which the horses' hoofs would leave few permanent marks. Beyond this gravel we plunged into an open wood, through which intricacies we were compelled to grope blindly. Tim and I both afoot and constantly calling to each other, so as not to become separated. I had lost all sense of direction, when this forest finally ended, and we again emerged upon an open prairie, with a myriad of stars shining overhead.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN.

The relief of thus being able to perceive each other and gain some view of our immediate surroundings after that struggle through darkness cannot be expressed in words. We were upon a rather narrow tongue of land, the two diverging forks of the stream closing us in so, after a short conversation we continued to tide straight forward keeping rather close to the edge of the wood so as to better conceal our passage. Our advance while not rapid, was steady, and we must have covered several miles before the east began to show gray, the ghastly light of the new dawn revealing our tired faces. Ahead of us stretched an extensive swamp, with pools of stagnant water shimmering through lush grass and brown firs, and of cat-tails bordering their edges. Some distance out in this alluvial plain, and only half revealed through the dim light, a somewhat higher bit of land rocky on its exposed side, its crest crowned with trees, arose like an island. Tim stared across at it, shading his eyes with one hand.

"If we was gon' ter stop eny whar 'cap," he said finally. "I reckon thar ain't no better place than thet per-vidin' we kin git thar."

I followed his gaze, and noticed that the mulatto girl also lifted her head to look

"We certainly must rest," I confessed. "Miss Beaucare seems to be sleeping, but I am sure is thoroughly exhausted. Do you see any way of getting across the swamp?"

He did not answer, but Elsie instantly pointed toward the left, crying out eagerly.

"Sure, Ah do. The lan' is higher hangin' thar, sah—yer kin see shalle rock."

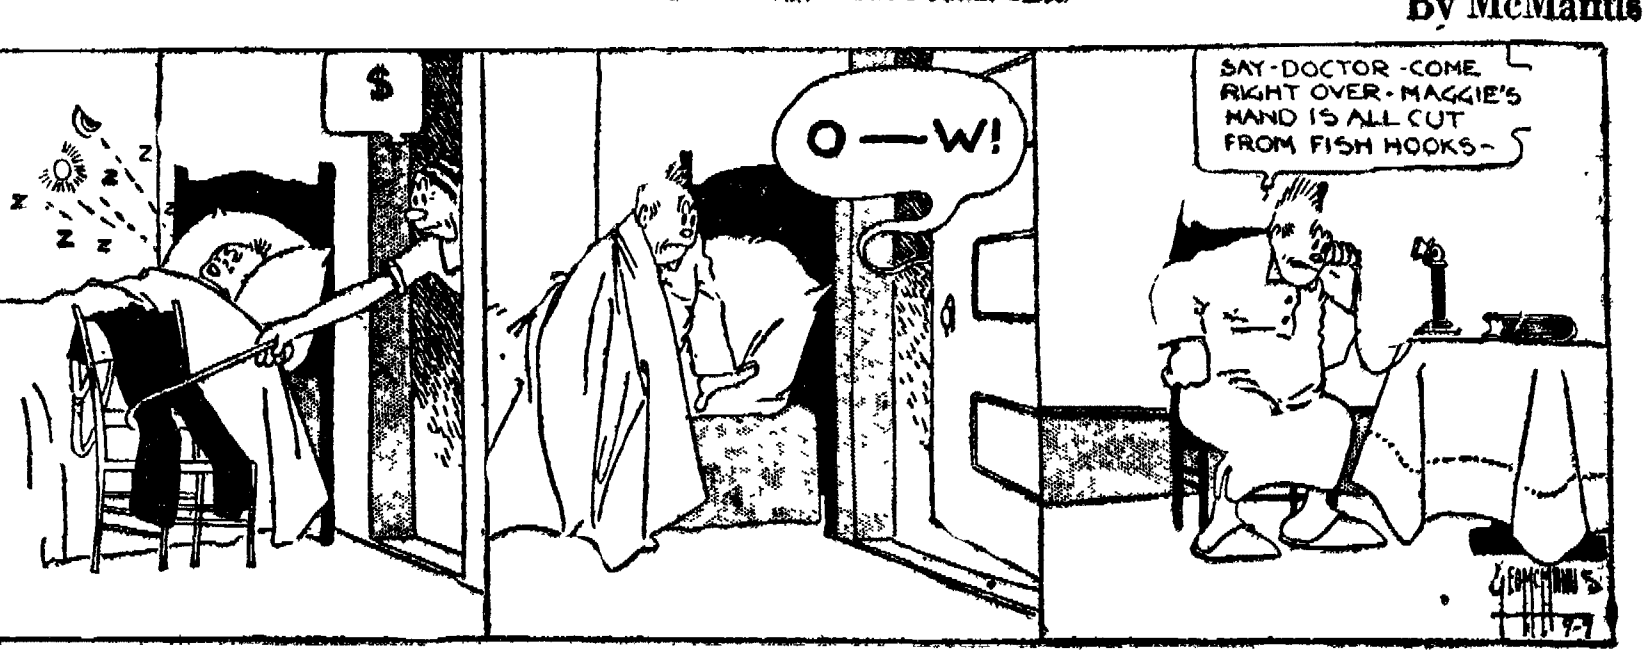

"So you can it almost looks like a dyke. Let's try it, Tim."

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezons costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet. A tiny bottle of "Freezons" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without any bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!

CONFERENCE WILL OPEN TUESDAY AT WINONA

PULP PRODUCTS COMPANY HAS NOVEL MANUFACTURE

New Corporation. Opens in This City to Produce Pulp Containers.

COVERS THE ENTIRE STATE

With offices already opened on the third floor of the Shoff building and machinery ordered, the Pulp Products company, capitalized at $15,000, will begin operation in the near future. This corporation has secured the exclusive rights for the state of Indiana for the manufacture of liquid, semi-liquid and dry containers and other articles from wood pulp by the Drake process. The following officers are now effective: William P. Ryess, president; C. J. Lamont, of Lamont and Co., vice-president; H. P. Euler, secretary-treasurer. According to plans the new concern will place into operation machines enough to turn out a large number of the containers of any shape desirable per day. The process provides for the production of 233,000 containers daily from a plant of ten units.

Process Novel.

The process is a novel one in which a large quantity of the raw wood pulp is put into vats and heated to a temperature of 500 degrees Fahrenheit. The superheated air or steam is used to blow and dry the work thus sterilizing it at a high temperature. Containers of any size or shape can be made, including single service milk bottles, shipping cases, kegs and barrels, human forms for show window displays, pipe covering, mailing tubes, corrugated shields for shipping glass bottles, cigar boxes and many others. Much attention is being paid to the single service milk bottle which can be produced at a small cost and will aid in reducing the present high costs, due to breakage and awkward handling of glass containers. The bottles can be sealed by the same filling and capping machines as used to seal glass bottles.

The pulp in its raw state is made into the seamless finished article in one operation with no loss of material. The pulp enters the moulds of the shape and size desired by gravity and is blown by compressed air. Any number of units may be installed in a line and operated with a single power unit so that the company will be enabled to care for a large production. One ton of wood pulp will produce 30,000 one pint containers or bottles, any shape by this process. Although it will take about sixty days for the local company to secure its machinery and equipment, a manufacturing plant will be opened as soon as possible. The novel method of production and the capacity of the plant makes it one of the most interesting industries.

MANY PEOPLE POISONED

Scores of people meet death each year by a slow process of poisoning that is going on within the body. This poisoning is caused by the liver and kidneys failing to perform their proper function. Poisonous matter accumulates and health declines. The unsightly liver spots, biliousness, headache, dizziness, bad taste in the mouth, a pain in the back or under the shoulder blade, a tired or achy feeling are some of the most common symptoms of this poisoning. If this poison is not expelled from the body and the cause removed the resisting power is finally gone and life pays the penalty. Are you of the heedless class or are you safeguarding your health? If you want health you must keep the liver, kidneys and bowels active. Glando Tonic is what you need to restore this activity and expell the poison. Glando Tonic is put up in a treatment form and guaranteed to do the work. Ask your druggist for a large 41 treatment. Take it as directed and you will be surprised to know how much poison was stored up within your body. When the liver has been inactive for some time a mucus or slime collects within the stomach and bowels which hinders digestion and the assimilation of food. This is called catarrh of the stomach and bowels. Glando Tonic cuts this slime or mucus and removes it from the body. A nauseated feeling is sometimes experienced when this change is taking place, but as soon as the slime or mucus is removed from the bowels, you will feel fine, the complexion will clear, the appetite return and you will want to tell others of your wonderful cure. Glando Tonic is sold by druggists or may be secured by sending direct to the Glando-Ald Co., Fort Wayne, Ind. Large treatment $1.
